GOV. AL SMITH TAKES ISSUE WITH HOOVER

Raps G. O. P. Nominee Charge That Bourbon Leader Socialist

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—With whistles shrieking and crowds cheering, Governor Alfred E. Smith left Boston today to continue his campaign through southern New England and other Atlantic seaboard states after a great reception in Boston.

The Smith special train pulled out of South Station at 10:30 a.m., a few minutes after the nominee and his wife had arrived at the terminal in an automobile parade from hotel Statler.

Before leaving Boston, Smith, in a brief talk with newspapermen, expressed confidence that he would carry Massachusetts November 6. He declared, in answer to a question, that his health was in tip-top shape, and said he was not tired despite the strenuous program that he carried out here.

Governor and Mrs. Smith were accorded a tremendous ovation this morning when they descended from their tenth floor suite to the lobby of the hotel Statler.

So great were the crowds that paid him tribute yesterday, that Smith's progress in an automobile parade through Boston's streets was slow.

Probably with this in mind, the nominee today took precautions against upsetting the scheduled departure of his train. This morning's automobile parade sped through the crowd lined streets between the hotel and South Station and the trip required little more than three minutes.

A large police detail cleared the way for the Smith procession and police were forced to open a path to permit the Smith party to enter the south terminal. Tens of thousands jammed the station arcade.

Bowing and smiling, Smith hurried to his train, paid a brief visit to his private car, and then appeared on the observation platform.

For nearly 20 minutes he stood there with Mrs. Smith, waving his famous brown derby and bowing to the crowd, while the station echoed with cheers.

COLUSA, Calif., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Four Indians were being held for investigation by sheriff's deputies pending the result of the coroner's inquest today into the death of Clara Buck, 19-year-old Indian girl, whose body was taken from the Sacramento river near here.

The men in custody are Tom Potter, Will Kirk, Antone Dock and James Dock.

Marks on the girl's head were being examined by Coroner J. D. McNary to determine whether they were bullet wounds or were inflicted by some blunt instrument.

The girl had been missing from her home in Yolo county for two weeks.

SENATOR NORRIS TO SPEAK FOR GOV. SMITH ON FRIDAY

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Praised on one side and condemned on the other, Senator George W. Norris, republican, was due here tomorrow night to deliver a speech urging voters to support Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for president.

Interest today centered on the reaction of Nebraska farmers, it being conceded that the main strength of Norris is in the rural sections.

The Nebraska progressive league for Smith will meet Senator Norris when he arrives from Seattle at 7:45 Friday evening. Later he will be the guest of honor at a reception sponsored by the league.

In a statement issued today Arthur F. Mullen, democratic national committeeman, predicted that the action of Senator Norris in turning against Herbert Hoover, his party's nominee, will not only influence votes in the corn belt but in the south as well.

"In the south Norris is idolized because of his fight for Muscle Shoals," Mullen said.

W. J. Bryan Jr. Supporting G.O.P. Nominee

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 25.—(UP)—William Jennings Bryan Jr., son of Nebraska's great "Commoner," will support Herbert Hoover for the presidency, it was announced here today by the state Republican headquarters.

Bryan, who resides in California, was in Lincoln in connection with his father's estate here, when he made the informal announcement at a business luncheon. He left for his home before politicians learned of his statement.

G. O. P. LEADERS CLAIM HOOVER HAS 301 VOTES

New York, Massachusetts, and New Jersey Not Included In List

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Republican headquarters, privately claims a basic minimum of 301 electoral votes for Herbert Hoover, the United Press learned today.

In headquarters is a large tally sheet, on which the republicans' hopes are listed. Just what states the national committee claims for Hoover was not revealed to the United Press though it is known the 45 New York votes, 18 Massachusetts and 14 New Jersey are not included in the 301 claim.

The committee is known to be hopeful of adding these three Atlantic seaboard strongholds, as well as Virginia, Florida, North Carolina and Wisconsin to the 301 minimum. Of Wisconsin, the committee is not entirely confident, it is said, despite leaders' reports that the state is "in the bag."

The committee contends concerning the above mentioned states only that it expects a majority of their votes.

Should the fortunes of war throw all that group to the republicans, then their total, with the 301 minimum, would reach 421 votes.

There are 531 electoral votes, with 266 needed for election.

Hoover in New York this week uttered his first prediction of victory, saying that unless republican leaders became overconfident the party would win on November 6. Chairman Raskob of the democratic national committee sometime ago estimated Smith would have 309 electoral votes. Chairman Work of the republican national committee has kept silent, hitherto, as to statistics though he is known to hold privately that Hoover will have a safe margin on election day.

HOOVER URGES G. O. P. LEADERS GET OUT VOTE

Confident He Will Be Next President If His Party Will Go to Polls

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—With his departure for the west coast one week away, Herbert Hoover laid plans today to spur his Republican organization on to a final drive for presidential votes.

The Republican nominee, convinced by optimistic reports that he will win on November 6 if the organization gets out the vote, planned a series of conferences with eastern leaders and with various political groups during his final week in the east. These conferences will be held at his headquarters here and their purpose will be to ship up a highly enthusiastic organization for action on election day.

The nominee will make two more contributions to the campaign. First, he will speak in St. Louis on the night of Friday, November 2, a semi-final public appearance, while the last act in the campaign will be a radio speech from his home on the Monday night before lection.

Enroute to St. Louis, Hoover will ride aboard a special train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, through Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky.

He has scheduled stops at Cumberland, Md., and Louisville, Ky., but if crowds gather to greet him during the daylight hours, he probably will be prevailed upon to make other rear platform appearances.

Leaving St. Louis, the nominee will take a "bee-line" route to the coast. His train will be run over the Burlington road from St. Louis to Grand Island, Nebr., via St. Joseph, Mo. In Nebraska, his train will be switched to the tracks of the Union Pacific through Wyoming, Utah and Nevada. The last lap, through Sacramento, Calif., will be made over the Southern Pacific lines. He expects to reach

Campaign To Be Launched Immediately

Action Taken at Meeting Of County Chapter In S. A. Last Evening

THE ORANGE County Chapter of Disabled American Veterans, meeting at Ketner's cafe last night, voted unanimously recommendation to the United States Veterans' bureau that it give serious consideration to Orange county as location for a hospital for disabled veterans of all wars.

A formal campaign was launched to secure such an institution for this county, and a copy of the resolution was forwarded to United States Senator Hiram D. Johnson and Congressman Phil D. Swing. At the same time plans were made for enlisting the support of the Chamber of Commerce, the board of supervisors and all organizations of war veterans in the county.

The hospital movement was started immediately following a declaration by State Commander William Murphy that the steady influx of veterans to California from extreme climates had created an urgent need for more hospital space for California. Murphy said it is possible that at its next session congress will authorize additional hospitals for California, and he asserted that no county in the state offers better surroundings for such a plant than Orange county.

The meeting was attended by a large and representative group, among those present being Mrs. Fannie E. Reeves, "mother" of the local boys; Mrs. Myrtle Cain, president of American Legion auxiliary, and Franklin G. West, commander of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion.

F. C. Slater presented an outline of the plans for Armistice day at Orange and he was assured of 100 per cent co-operation by the disabled soldiers organization.

Harry Edwards, department adjutant and chairman of the welfare committee of the American Legion, gave a brief talk on the welfare situation in Orange county and asked the aid and cooperation of all business men in securing employment for ex-service men.

The assemblage was entertained by local talent and by professional talent provided through the courtesy of the West Coast-Walker theater.

DOUG, MARY PLAYING INCOME TAX LEADS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(INS)—Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks played a new role today.

They were here for a tilt with Uncle Sam over income taxes. The argument involves a million or so dollars in back taxes which the government alleged are due from the screen stars.

Although they have retained a high-powered array of counsel, Doug and Mary thought it advisable to appear personally before income tax officials.

Mary's case also involves the estate of her mother who died some months ago. The exact total was not divulged.

NEW LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS PROPOSED BY LONDON EDITOR ON TOUR OF UNITED STATES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 25.—(UP)—A new League of Nations, composed of great powers only and including the United States, was proposed today by Ralph D. Blumenfeld, editor of the London Express and head of the British Journalistic mission touring this country under the auspices of the Carnegie endowment for international peace.

The present League of Nations, he said, had become hopelessly ineffective and a danger to international relations.

Interviewed by Lee T. Casey, a staff correspondent of the Scripps-Howard newspaper, Mr. Blumenfeld said the league was hamstrung by its own cumbersome constitution and was now "a germ-carrying talking machine, an overgrown bureaucratic debating society which is a fulcrum for every crank idea." In its place, he proposed a league of nations which would be the result of a spontaneous agreement between Great Britain and the United States, without elaborate treaties. Each of the powers, under his plan, would keep order among the minor states.

"There's no country in the world that wants peace so much and as ardently as Great Britain," said the London publisher. "Great Britain still feels her enormous losses in men, money and material and the disruption of generations of trade connections through the world. She wants a chance to recover from the catastrophe that not only overtook her but the rest of the world.

"The British desire is to let other nations work out their destiny without hindrance. It is recognized in Great Britain almost to a man that there is room in the world for all men and all nations. But the will to peace must be born of a spontaneous desire and cannot be the result of what I should call a synthetic peace act.

"The idea of the league of nations is beautiful, magnificent and idealistic, but in order to achieve a real league of nations you must first eliminate the human factor, which implies human passions. Jealousies, false pride and ambitions.

The youth, son of R. L. Lewis, Huntington Beach oil man, was found late last night on the porch of the home of Miss June Cochran, his fiancee. He wore the same clothes he had on when he disappeared, but a fraternity pin, his wallet and some money were missing.

"They got me but I got away," Lewis said to police. "They got me again. I was given plenty."

The parents of the boy arrived here today from Huntington Beach.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(UP)—The city council will resume its open hearing late today into the action of Capt. J. J. Jones in sending Mrs. Christine Collins to the psychopathic ward for refusing to take an imposter into her home as her son.

Members of the police commission and Chief of Police James Davis have been subpoenaed to appear at the session. Davis and the commission at first whitewashed Jones but later ordered him suspended pending further investigation of the affair.

Mrs. Collins testified at yesterday's session that Captain Jones swore at her and treated her brutally before he finally ordered her held for a sanity investigation.

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE IS SUCCESSFUL IN THIS CASE

GIRARD, Kans., Oct. 25.—Almost a year of successful companionate married life of his daughter with Aubrey Roselle has convinced E. Haldeman Julius, Girard publisher, that the two young people have instituted the beginning of a definite constructive program.

While her young companionate husband works in his father's creamery to earn a living, Josephine Haldeman-Julius is attending high school, where she is doing her last year's work, interrupted by her marriage last February.

The five essentials of companionate marriage, as explained by Haldeman Julius, are: that there shall be sane, clean, sex education for the children and scientific instruction in laws and art of love, marriage and parenthood at the time of adolescence; legal dissemination of birth control information; divorce by mutual consent for childless couples; no alimony as a matter of arbitrary legal right; establishment of a new institution to be called "the house of human welfare."

FULLERTON CITY DADS UNDER FIRE

Group of Ranchers Seeking To Oust Them Because Of Letting Franchise

ACTION IS DEFENDED

Framers Declare Move Will Deprive City of Water And Lower All Levels

FULLERTON, Oct. 25.—Action on the part of a group of Fullerton ranchers to recall three Fullerton city councilmen was in full swing today, it was announced by J. P. Des Granges who is one of the group assisting in the recall. W. B. Potter, O. A. Kreighbaum and J. S. Elder are the three councilmen who are under fire.

Petitions are being prepared today and other details are being worked out in order to get started on circulating the petitions within a day or two.

The three officials are being criticized for voting a franchise to the Union Oil company for the right to lay a water and gas installation from water-bearing gravels southeast of Fullerton 4000 acres of undeveloped land to the north of Fullerton. Those opposed to the action declared that this water will lower the level in the Fullerton district.

Councilman Potter declared today that his action as one of the councilmen approving the granting of the franchise was for the best interests of all concerned. He emphasized that the granting of the franchise had nothing whatever to do with the argument as to whether the Union Oil company had a right to the water. The action in granting the franchise was merely giving the company the right to take water through Fullerton. The right to the water would have to be determined by the courts and was absolutely out of the jurisdiction of the Fullerton city council, he believed.

O. A. Kreighbaum and J. S. Elder, the other two councilmen could not be reached for a statement of their views although it is thought their action was based on similar views as Councilman Potter expressed. Councilmen Bert Annin and W. L. Hale opposed the granting of the franchise.

DEATHS OF 2 BOYS FOUND ACCIDENTAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS)—All inquiry into the deaths of Terrence and Benjamin Waldman, heirs of the late Benjamin Guggenheim, was closed today with the filing of the report of Medical Examiner Charles Norris, who found the cause accidental after a formal inquest.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Waldman fell to their deaths from the roof of Hotel Surrey last Friday while out for an airing with their mother, a daughter of the copper king, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster.

Mrs. Waldman is still in a state of collapse.

THE CAMPAIGN LOG

Gov. Alfred E. Smith in his Boston speech, declared that the charge of "state socialism," made by Herbert Hoover, was subterfuge and camouflage against progressive welfare and legislation. He will continue his New England tour today.

Herbert Hoover's speaking plans on his trip to Palo Alto, Calif., where he will vote on election day, included Cumberland, Md., Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis. The republican nominee planned to leave Washington November 1.

Charles Evans Hughes, speaking for Hoover in Chicago, extolled the reduction of the public debt and income taxes under republican administration and said Smith had become "reckless" in his criticism of republican financial administration.

Cruickshank And Finley To Direct Chest Solicitation

WOMEN TO BE IN CHARGE OF MRS. COULTER

Clyde Downing, chairman of the Community Chest campaign, which will open here on November 20 and close November 24, today announced appointment of three of Santa Ana's outstanding citizens to the leadership of the solicitation organization.

The appointees are A. J. Cruickshank, chairman of the advance gifts committe; Col. S. H. Finley, leader of the men's organizations, and Mrs. F. E. Coulter, leader of the women's organizations. George S. Smith was named vice chairman of the advance gifts committee.

Following announcement of acceptance of the positions, W. V. Whitson, president of the chest, declared that the success of the campaign was assured.

Commenting on the public activity of the group, Chairman Downing said:

Outstanding Leaders

"Cruickshank is recognized as one of the outstanding leaders in the public life of Orange county. He has been a member of the board of education, a trustee of Pomona college and a member of the state board of the Y.M.C.A.

"Colonel Finley's public service extends over a period of 40 years. For the last eight years he has been a member of the board of supervisors. In addition he served as mayor, councilman and school trustee, and is a member of the city planning commission. He also is one of the outstanding leaders in the movement for Southern California water conservation and has served as chief engineer of the county highway commission.

"Five years ago he was general chairman of the campaign to raise funds for the Y.M.C.A. building and was the first president of the Y.M.C.A. in Santa Ana.

"Mrs. F. E. Coulter long has been prominent in women's organizations in Santa Ana and for the last two years has been president of the Ebell club, which is the community's largest women's organization, composed, as it is, of more than 400 members.

Spiritual Value Cited

"The Community Chest is much more than an efficient and easy way of collecting the funds for the various social service agencies," Downing continued. "It is a repository of the good will of our community in making it a better place for our boys and girls, and caring for those who are less fortunate. With the powerful leadership that we have in the three departments of our campaign this year, we will endeavor to make the drive a festival week in which our citizens give thought to the spiritual values which are the underlying motives of the community chest."

ment in Boston last night as the first issue to be discussed, the governor said that not only was Hoover's acceptance speech vague on the subject, but his August 18 speech at Los Angeles also failed to express frankly the Republican candidate's position.

"All that he said about the fundamental principle of controlling the sources of supply was that he was in favor of the highest dam at Boulder canyon on the Colorado river that the engineers would recommend," Smith said.

"This has to do with construction. The fundamental principle he carefully avoided."

If Hoover classed him as a "state socialist" because he stood for governmental ownership and control of public water power sites, he added, then Charles Evans Hughes, the late Theodore Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and other leading Republicans "also are socialists." They stood with him on that issue, he asserted.

"'Do not let them get a monopoly on what belongs to the state'," the governor quoted President Roosevelt as saying of the "water power barons."

Reactionaries, the candidate said, had raised the cry of socialism at every advance in progressive legislatiton. He cited the workmen's compensation laws, pension measures to aid widowed mothers, and acts for the protection of women in industry as examples.

Linking the prohibition issue with the "state socialism" charge, Governor Smith said:

"Where does Mr. Hoover's donothing policy with respect to prohibition get us For anything that he has to suggest we shall continue to live under the present grave abuses. If my plan of liquor control is state socialism, the present condition of bootlegging, hijacking, racketeering, corruption and lawlessness is governmental anarchy."

The candidate wound up the speech with the assertion that "state socialism" was nothing more than a "stock phrase" and a "patented cry."

"The cry of socialism has been patented by the powerful interests that desire to put a damper on progressive legislation," he said. "Failing to meet the arguments fairly and squarely, special interest falls back on the old stock phrase of socialism. The people of New York are tired of the stock argument, have found that it means nothing, that it is simply subterfuge and camouflage, and I am satisfied that the people of the nation in their wisdom will so appraise it."

PERSIMMON CROP UNUSUALLY LARGE

Predictions that the Orange county persimmon crop will be three times larger than that of last year will hold true, Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor, said today following an inspection of the crop on the McFadden-Walker ranch near Irvine.

Trees on that ranch between three and four years old produced 19 tons of fruit last season and this year are expected to bear 150 tons, Wahlberg said.

A pruning plot on which experiments are being conducted to determining how pruning affects the trees, is undergoing picking today. The fruit will be run through the packing house with the idea of determining how pruning affects the quality and size of the persimmons. Some trees have been subject to short pruning, some to long pruning, and some have not been cut at all.

Copies may be had upon request. Virtually every question that might arise in the mind of any person is answered and Knox said that voters not familiar with the details of organization of the district and the possible course of action should read the pamphlet.

his home late the afternoon of Monday, Nov. 5.

His St. Louis speech, in effect, will be his last public bid for votes. In it, he will discuss the midwestern waterway problem, rediscuss his program for agricultural relief and some collateral matters. It will deal with agricultural problems and the problems of the whole Mississippi valley.

The radio address, scheduled for the night before election, may have but little Republican politics in it. Under present plans, the nominee probably will make a simple appeal to the American electorate to go to the polls and vote. Having set such an example himself, by crossing the continent to vote, Hoover can well urge his fellow citizens to go to the trouble of using their suffrage in a presidential election.

A WORD OF COMFORT

The real test of your manhood is not whether you find the proportion of happiness in life which you believe to be your due, but whether you struggle manfully to live true to your allegiance to a God of love in the face of a grilling experience.

When you are tempted to quit trying just because your heart aches, remind yourself that your fight to be true means everything to God and to the peace and joy of your beloved in Paradise.

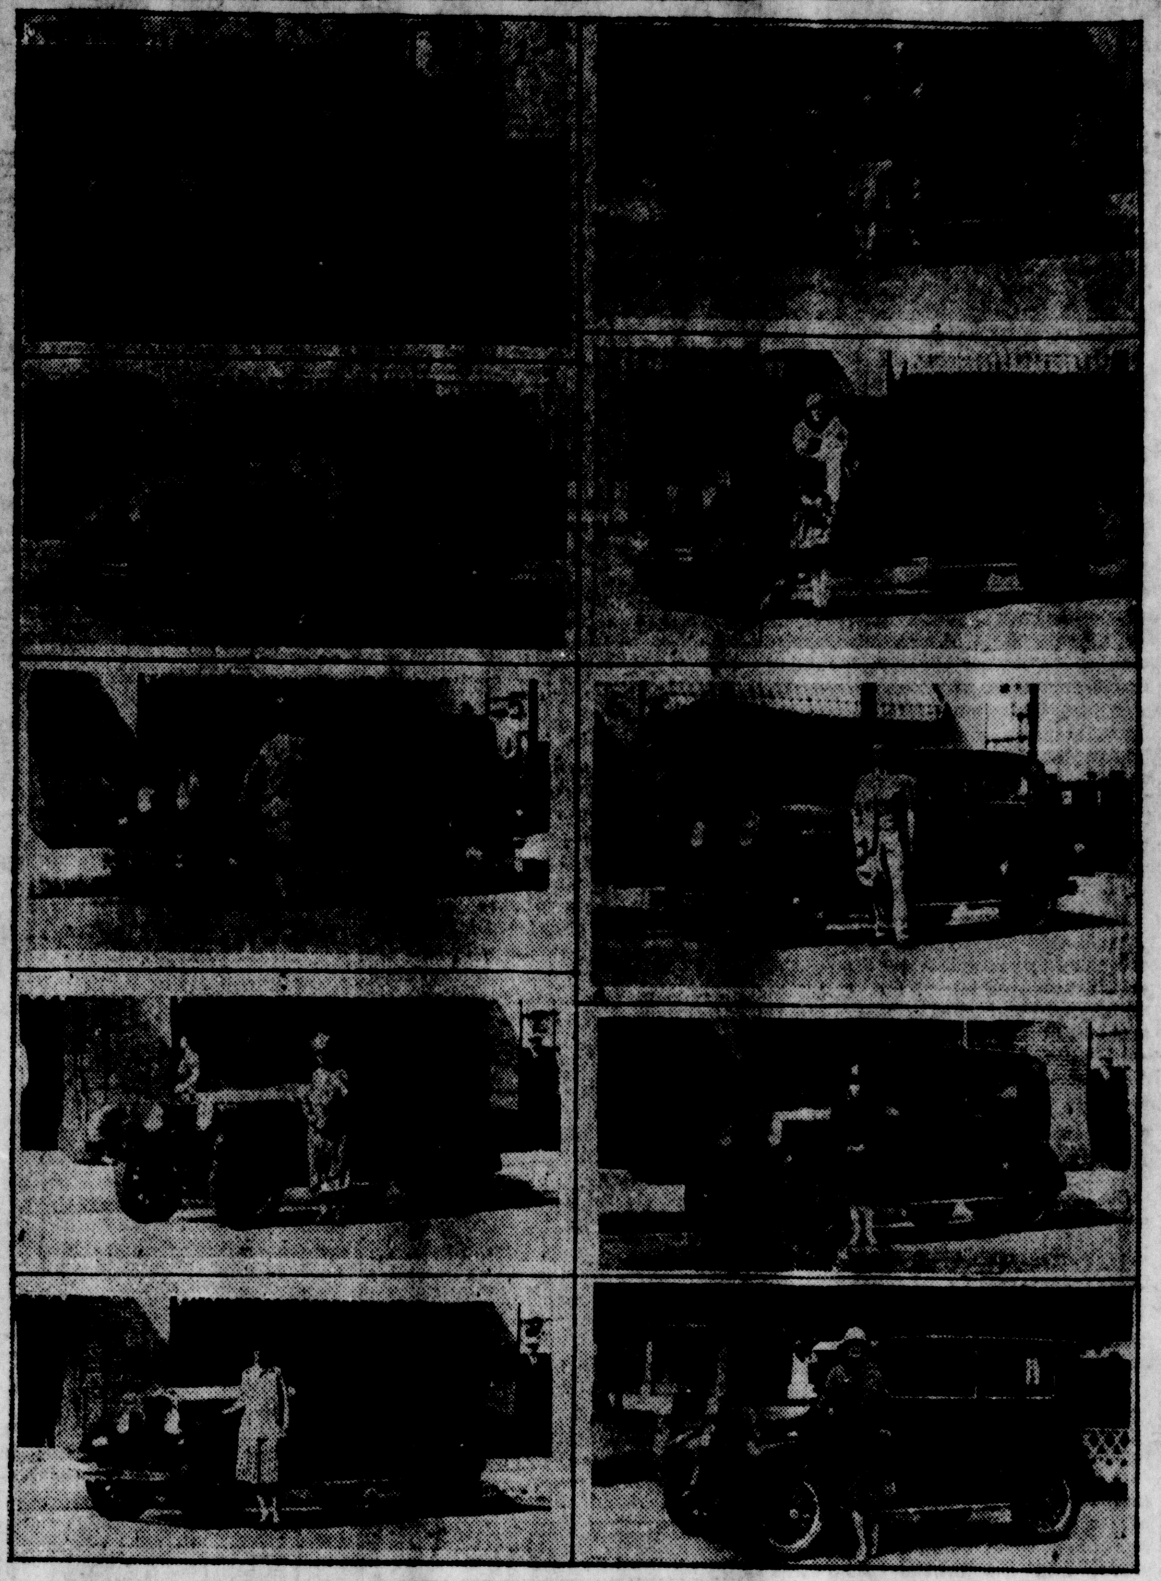
No. 4, Mrs. Alice Batterman; No. 5, R. Shearme. No. 6, A. N. Cox. No. 7, Mrs. Fred Miller. No. 8, Mrs. Pearl Paddock. No. 9, Mrs. Henrietta Roberts. No. 10, Mrs. R. M. Hodges.



LAUD CONDUCT OF DRIVE FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS

The popularity of The Register throughout Orange county, apparent appreciation for its complete coverage of the news world, the courteous treatment everywhere accorded contestants and The Register's fair dealing with contestants were cited today in statements made by the 10 winners of automobiles in the paper's big subscription contest.

Their faces wreathed in smiles, the winning contestants today were given orders for their new cars. Each made a statement concerning the public's opinion of The Register. "I never once heard anything against The Register," said one of the winners.

"The popularity of The Register wherever I went certainly was an aid in the contest," said another.

"I didn't have to sell The Register. I merely called around and the subscriptions came rolling in," said a third.

Not Difficult Task

Mrs. Frank Vaughn, Costa Mesa, winner of the grand prize, a Packard coupe, made the following statement:

"We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the Santa Ana Register, which made it possible for us to win the Packard, of which we are very proud.

"We started out to win the first prize offered. It is even a more handsome car than we imagined. It certainly makes us glad that we got out and worked as we did.

"We also wish to thank the campaign department, whose associates we enjoyed working with for the reason of their fair play and just dealings, and our many friends, who helped us in every way toward reaching our goal.

"Undoubtedly The Santa Ana Register is the best paper in Southern California and we encountered no difficulty in getting subscriptions, new or renewals."

Praise for the co-operation received from The Register in the contest also was given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer. Mrs. Meyer won the second prize, a Marmon sedan, but she said today that much of the credit was due her husband.

"I just want to say that I am one of the happiest persons on earth to have won the beautiful car which was presented to me today. It was work, and hard work, but at the same time it certainly was a pleasure, as well as an experience which I shall never forget. I found the campaign to be 'on the square' in every way.

"Good, Clean Paper"

"I also want to thank Mr. Burke for the wonderful opportunity he offered us through the campaign and the people who helped me with their subscriptions. There were many and they were all glad to help me, not just so I could win the car, for they knew the paper to be a good, clean paper."

The following statement was made by Mrs. J. O. Loretz, Huntington Beach, who won a beautiful Studebaker sedan:

"Words can not express my gratitude to The Santa Ana Register for giving me this wonderful opportunity to win one of the handsome prizes offered in the contest. I also wish to thank the managers of the contest for the fairness they have shown toward every one of the contestants.

"Many times during the contest period I was inclined to give up, but I surely am proud to think that I did not after having won the beautiful Studebaker President.

"May I take this opportunity also to thank my friends and other wonderful people who came to my aid through their subscriptions. I am sure that all of them will find The Register the best paper in this section of the state, just like I told them it was when I called on them.

"To Mr. Burke, who really is responsible for my winning the car, as it was he who offered the opportunity, I want to say that I always shall be a Register booster."

Credit to Community

"I wish to express my gratitude to each and every one who helped me win in The Register contest. In covering Orange county, I found that The Register is considered a credit to the community in which it serves," said Mrs. Alice Wasser Batterman, Santa Ana, winner of the Reo sedan.

"I would say of Mr. Burke, the publisher, that he stands for all that is good. The Hollister organization is a credit to a newspaper campaign, for its honesty and integrity is above reproach."

Ronald Shearme, 926 West Pine street, Santa Ana, who today is riding in a new Hupmobile sedan, made the following statement:

"Having won the Hupmobile car offered in The Register's big contest, I want to thank all of my friends and acquaintances in Santa Ana and elsewhere for the wonderful support they gave me and especially the Tustin lodge, No. 85, Knights of Pythias, for without the splendid support it gave me, I do not believe I would have been one of the big winners.

"At the same time, I want to express my appreciation to The Register, which co-operated with me at all times. There never was a time that it was not willing to assist in every way and the courteous treatment given me aided considerably in winning for me one of the cars."

The following statement comes from A. N. Cox, of the Finley hotel, winner of the handsome Nash sedan:

Made Many Friends

"It was a pleasure to me to have had the opportunity to have been in the campaign. It afforded me a chance to see all my old friends and make many new ones.

"I want to commend The Register and the campaign department for the fair and square manner in which the campaign was handled and I wish to thank my many friends for their splendid support."

Mrs. Fred J. Miller, 626 East Seventeenth street, winner of one of the Essex machines, stated that although she felt her efforts hopeless at times, the courteous treatment she received everywhere kept her optimistic. Her statement follows:

"I just want to say that I certainly appreciate the courteous treatment given me, not only from my friends throughout the county, which kept me optimistic throughout the contest, but from the contest managers, whom I found kind and patient at all times, always willing to answer my many questions.

"I want to thank The Register for the beautiful Essex machine given me as a prize and I feel that I certainly have been more than paid for the effort I put forth to win, although I felt downhearted at times.

"To my friends in the churches, who aided me do I especially want to express my thanks and to assure them that they have aided in making me very happy."

Thankful for Co-operation

"I want to express my appreciation for the co-operation The Register gave me in the campaign," said Mrs. Pearl Paddock, 705 East Walnut street, Orange, winner of an Essex machine.

"The days certainly have been busy ones for me but I have been amply paid for all the trouble. I want to take this opportunity to thank the many persons who aided me in winning one of the beautiful cars and to say that I know they will find that The Register will give them more news and service than even I promised them during the campaign," she said.

Further praise for The Register was given by Henrietta Roberts, 601 West Third street. Mrs. Roberts won a Durant car.

"I want to sincerely thank my many friends who gave me their loyal support in The Register contest and helped me win the Durant sedan.

"I feel the contest was conducted honestly and fairly to each contestant and Mr. Burke is to be congratulated on the successful campaign to increase the circulation and in having as courteous campaign managers as I found Mr. Strayer and Mr. Hollister to be."

Paper Sold Itself

Although she knew only a few persons in the county, Mrs. R. M. Hodges, Laguna Beach, winner of the Whippet, said she won her car because of the popularity of The Register. Her statement was:

"I want to thank one and all for the wonderful support given me during the campaign. Not having a very large acquaintance in the county, I depended largely on my own efforts to win a prize and found that the response came liberally and without hesitancy, which proved not only the value and prestige of The Register in the territory, but that determination, coupled with well directed efforts could attain success.

"I want to thank The Register for making the opportunity possible and the campaign department for the fair and square manner in which the campaign was conducted."

CHARGES CRUELTY IN DIVORCE SUIT

After he is alleged to have given his wife consent to attend a dance in Long Beach, Lon A. Morris appeared at the hall and jerked her rudely from the floor, according to a divorce complaint filed today by Mrs. Marguerite Morris. Her mother was with her at the dance, she said.

The complaint stated that Morris was of a jealous disposition, subject to fits of temper, and that he had accused his wife of breaking up other people's homes. Mrs. Morris said that he had threatened to kill her, which had made her nervous and apprehensive.

Separation occurred on September 26, the day following the alleged dance hall episode, according to the complaint, which stated that the marriage was on September 7. Mrs. Morris is represented by O. A. Jacobs, Santa Ana attorney.

The case was referred back to the master calendar for resetting. Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodget and Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins handled the case for the people and D. G. Wettlin, of Santa Ana, and H. P. DeLongy, Orange, represented the defendant.

SHERIFF BACK FROM MEETING IN EL CENTRO

Sheriff Sam Jernigan returned here last night after attending the state convention of California sheriffs, held Monday and Tuesday in El Centro.

Sheriffs from 23 counties in the state were present at the convention, which was featured by discussions regarding proposed legislation pertaining to civil work. Several plans were introduced which would lessen the work of civil deputies and better protect the sheriff's offices, it was said.

A trip into Mexico featured one day of the convention.

Burton F. Becker, sheriff of Alameda county, was elected president of the association and R. R. Veal, of Contra Costa county, was re-elected secretary. Veal has been secretary of the organization for the last 32 years and is the oldest sheriff in point of service in the state.

STAMP EXPERT SCHEDULED TO SPEAK AT "Y"

Boys of the Y. M. C. A. are looking forward to a morning of exceptional fun and recreation on Saturday, it appears from the announcement by T. P. McKee, secretary for boys' work. A special program of games and athletic competition both in the gymnasium and on the playground is being planned, in addition to the regular swimming classes.

A feature is to be a talk on stamps and stamp collecting, by J. A. Alexander, owner of one of the finest stamp collections in Southern California. Mr. Alexander will talk to the boys on how to start and carry on a collection, explaining the reasons why some stamps have higher values than others, and he will exhibit a number of his rare and valuable stamps. Attendance at this talk is limited to boys who are definitely interested in stamps.

THUGS INVADE REGISTER—BUT 'TWAS JUST TO SHOOT FEW SCENES FOR NEW FILM

Invaded last night by a gang of racketeers, evidently just out on the coast from some of the eastern crime centers, and who interfered seriously with the activities of the capable workers forming a new night staff in The Register's composing room, the newspaper plant last night presented a strange scene to a large crowd of onlookers who gathered to watch the Fox Film company take pictures in a newspaper sequence for one of their newest feature films.

Soon after yesterday's Register was off the press, the big composing room, with its eight linotypes, its huge press, its make-up and stereotype departments, was given over to the studio people, who speedily set up their cameras, their battery of Kleig lights, the indispensable orchestra and all the paraphernalia for motion picture making.

However, if any of the onlookers expected to gain an understanding of the plot of the story being filmed they were doomed to disappointment, for it would be a difficult thing to determine what the tale might be. But a few leading questions to the director, Fred Neumeyer, and his chief assisting director, Ad Schaumer, aided greatly in unravelling the plot, which is one of modern life in which a high-class racketeer (if such gentry be high-class) attempts to keep a story to his discredit from reaching the public through the newspaper.

As may readily be seen, the newspaper sequence will be an important one and the company, in seeking location, found in The Register plant, all that was desired in developing the theme.

The story itself was written by Clarkson Miller, a former reporter on a New York daily, who left last night for the east, after a conference here with the producing company. Luther Reed, also a New York newspaperman, is supervising the work.

Members of the cast who were working here last night included Francis MacDonald, who will take the part of Romano, the suave villain and gangster. He will be remembered by Santa Ana audiences for his work with Bancroft in "The Dragnet" and other recent releases. Bob Elliott will play the managing editor; Claude King, the newspaper proprietor; Arthur Hoyt, society editor; Dorothy Revere, Romano's sweetheart; Sally Phipps, "sob sister" on the newspaper; Roscoe Kearns and Arthur Stone, reporters; Frank Albertson, cub reporter; Joe Brown, Romano's henchman, and Billy Anderson, a clever 9-year-old lad, Romano's little son.

Several other picture people completed the party sent down from Hollywood, together with cameramen electricians, musicians and others to the number of a score or more. This group was augmented by members of the make-up department of The Register, who moved about their regular duties in the glaring light of the Kleigs like veteran motion picture actors. The local newspapermen included William Lawrence, mechanical superintendent; William Zangraft, stereotyper; J. H. Patison, Floyd Berkland, C. C. Thrasher, E. E. Frisby and George Ross.

Picture taking was to be resumed this afternoon, when the company was to work on the street surrounding The Register building, and tonight, when interiors again will be shot.

The feature of the evening will be an address by Forrest L. Hiatt, of San Diego, president of the San Diego chapter of the American Rose society. Mr. Hiatt has been heard in Santa Ana before.

OBITUARY

MARIE ANTONETTE DANIELS

Marie Antonette Daniels, daughter of George and Celestia Daniels, was born January 7, 1865, in Leon Catteraugus county, New York, and came to Minnesota with her parents when she was nine years old. Her father preempted the claim he made in Scieta, Dakota county, where he wed his faithful wife, raised their little family of five children, a son and four daughters. Father and mother passed away on the farm that had been their home for so many years, and the brother who was a successful physician in Milbank, Dakota, died in 1904, the three sisters, Mrs. G. E. Wilson and Mrs. Stella D. Tomlins, of Santa Ana and Mrs. Sarah L. Carmichael, of St. Paul, Minn., live to mourn her death.

Marie acquired her education in Northfield and St. Paul, and took up her life work in the service of the government in the Agricultural department in Washington, D. C., where she spent 32 years and was retired with a pension at the end of that time and came to Santa Ana in 1919 after Mr. Wilson's death to be with her sister in her declining years. She has been a most patient sufferer for three years after being stricken with paralysis, which finally terminated her life last Tuesday night at 11 o'clock, October 19.

Funeral services in charge of Smith and Tuthill were conducted at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Wilson, 1912 Spurgeon street. Rev. E. J. Inwood, of Long Beach, officiated and spoke words of comfort and sympathy, and the assistant pastor of the M. E. church rendered two beautiful songs, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Some Sweet Day," favorites of the deceased.

The pall bearers were G. Fryette, A. J. Lasby, W. R. Freeman, W. Maas, F. P. Thom, J. L. Nicholson. Friends and relatives from out of town were a nephew, G. N. Daniels and wife, Los Angeles, Mrs. A. Carmen and daughter, cousins, Long Beach; E. W. Nobbs and wife, Los Angeles, and F. L. Stone and wife, Long Beach.

The many beautiful floral gifts were a mute tribute to the high esteem in which she was held. She was a great lover of nature and all the beautiful things of life, and would sacrifice all for those she loved, but the one great characteristic that stood out above all others, was to accept the inevitable with patience and cheerfulness as was manifested in the last three years of her helplessness.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store, Mateer's Drug Store.—Adv.

URGES DEFEAT OF PROPOSITION 17 ON BALLOT

FULLERTON, Oct. 25.—Proposition 17 on the November ballot, calling for a bond issue of $10,000,000 for the abolition or separation of grade crossings on state highways, should be defeated, in the opinion of Donald C. Jones, orange grower and real estate operator, who spoke against the measure before the Fullerton Toastmasters' club here last night.

The expenditure of this sum, if voted, will not reduce the grade crossing accidents on the county and city highways, where most of them occur, it was pointed out by Jones. Students of the highway situation are convinced that the vast sum now at the disposal of the highway commission from gasoline taxes and other sources of traffic revenue are adequate for the purpose of furnishing safe highways, the speaker declared.

Harry Fellinge was toastmaster at last night's meeting, with Harry Suters, former president of the club, acting as general critic.

Harold Lang, of Placentia, spoke on "Ocean Currents;" Raymond Thompson, "Mechanics' Liens;" William Stedman, "Immigration Laws;" Frank Mason, "Aviation;" William Kroeger jr., "Synthetic Silk," and Harry Fellinge, "Voice Culture."

The next meeting is to be "Ladies' Night," it was announced by President Frank Mason. The regular dinner meeting of the club will be followed by dancing and entertainment.

Never an Iron on My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush, or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert combs in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

The result is a soft, lovely, undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marceled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.—Adv.

TESTS REVEAL EFFICIENCY OF LOCAL SCHOOL

An indication of the efficiency of the English department of the Santa Ana high school was seen today in the announcement of results of Pressey tests given during 1927 and 1928.

Standing of local records in comparison with those for the state and nation show that a decided gain is brought about in English ability during the high school life of the pupils. As a rule the Santa Ana medians are below the national median in the tenth grade. But by the end of the twelfth year they are above the national marks, showing that the instruction received has brought about a remarkable improvement.

The tests cover capitalization, punctuation, grammar and sentence structure. In every case the median rises above the national records at the end of the twelfth grade. In all but the punctuation group the median in the tenth grade is below the state and national medians.

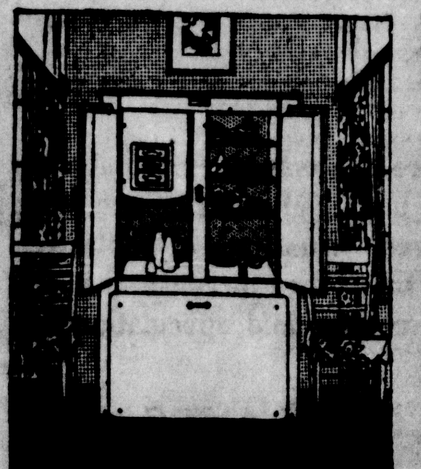
THE NEW FRIGIDAIRE

Greater beauty . . . Greater convenience
Greater ice freezing power
With incredibly quiet operation



THE cabinets of The New Frigidaires are finished in white Duco or porcelain enamel of white and Glacier gray.

The seamless porcelain enamel linings have rounded corners. These linings are as smooth as a china plate.

The shelves are spaced to provide for tall containers and are removable for cleaning. Even the lowest one is two feet or more from the floor. You can put the mechanism in the basement if you care to and use the lower part of the cabinet for dry storage. But even with the mechanism in the kitchen, it's so incredibly quiet that you don't hear it start, stop or run.

With all its improvements, Frigidaire prices were never lower or General Motors terms more liberal. Furthermore your New Frigidaire will pay for itself. There will be no more ice to buy. No more wasted food due to spoilage. Foods are kept fresh and wholesome 4 to 5 times longer so you can buy in larger quantities. These combined savings are greater than its cost and the cost of operation. The New Frigidaire is now on exhibition at our display room. Come in and see it today.

SAN CLEMENTE POST ENDORSES TWO MEASURES

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 25.—San Clemente post of the American Legion went on record at its meeting last night as favoring proposition No. 6 on the November ballot. The post also endorsed proposition No. 4. The first amendment approved deals with a scheme for the reorganization of the department of education. The other measure has to do with a plan to save California's playground for the people.

The post also voted to take part in the tenth armistice day celebration in Orange. Word was sent to Hal Sackett, chairman of the entertainment committee, that San Clemente would be represented, when the parade starts. If possible the Spanish village post will try to take part in some form in the Armistice day ceremonies in Oceanside.

A meeting of the local post will be held on election night at the Social club, when final plans for the post's entry in the two celebrations will be decided upon.

As many members as possible will go to Anaheim Monday evening to take part in the ceremony at which all officers of posts in Orange county will be installed. Officers of San Clemente post cannot be so honored as no word has been received from the state department as to the number of this post and other official matter that comes when a new post is recognized.

Today Say

What the Republican Party Has Done for the Veterans

The Republican party returned to power on March 4, 1921, about two and one-half years after the World war was terminated by the Armistice. The Democratic party during this two and one-half years had the first opportunity to pass veteran legislation for the purpose of rehabilitating the veterans.

In 1920 a law was passed which was introduced by a Republican member of Congress, Mr. Sweet, which increased temporary disability payment to veterans injured in the World War from $30.00 to $80.00 a month, and for permanently disabled veterans from $30.00 to $100.00 per month.

It was through a bill introduced by another Republican Congressman that the law was passed returning to the United States the bodies of unknown and unidentified soldiers.

It was the Republican administration that changed the system of placing the veterans in contract hospitals and through the Republican leadership since March 4, 1921 the government has erected its own hospitals—28 in number—esting to note that immediately which are today taking care of in excess of 26,000 men. It is inter-after the war and up to the time that the Republican party returned to power our government had only taken care of a little over 35,000 men in contract hospitals but since that time and under the Republican administration over 338,000 men have been hospitalized. Double the number of men have received vocational training under the Republican administration than under the preceding Democratic administration and these men have been rehabilitated and have been sent back to take their place among the productive class instead of being a burden upon their country. Under the Republican administration also, the disabled men and their families have received proper compensation to which they have been entitled and have not been left to charity.

It was under the Republican administration also that the adjusted compensation bill was passed and insurance certificates given to the veterans who served in the World war, under a plan which made it just to the veterans and no burden upon the tax paying public. It was also under the Republican administration that the preference to veterans in civil service was created and almost four times as many veterans have been placed in civil service positions since the Republicn party gained power than before.

The veterans may continue to expect favor under the Republican administration. The Veterans Bureau is now being handled in an efficient and satisfactory manner and the Republican candidate, Herbert Hoover, has pledged himself to its continued efficiency. He has said: "Our country owes an everlasting debt of gratitude to the veterans of the World war. It was my privilege to see at first hand their sacrifices, idealism and unselfish service. Their heroism not only made possible the winning of the war, but will furnish inspiration for young America for years to come. I have observed with genuine sympathy the solution by the Republican administration of the problems of the disabled soldiers and dependents. It is my desire that the constructive and intelligent service now being rendered by the Veterans' Bureau be continued and enlarged, and that generous interpretation be made of the many laws enacted for the relief of the veterans."

Few Things To Know

(Furnished by the Democratic Co. Cen. Com.)

We hear much about the Boulder Dam bill in Southern California, and how the two political parties stand on this issue. Especially do we hear much of Tammany hall and its so-called stand for all that is bad, yet do these advocates of Boulder dam know that when the Boulder dam was up for passage in the lower house of congress, that out of 25 so-called Tammany Democrats, 18 voted for this measure, four were paired for it, 1 against and 2 absent. Of the 18 Republicans from New York state, 2 voted for it. In the senate, both of New York's Democratic senators supported the Boulder Dam on every point raised to bring this bill before that body. On the other hand, such Republican leaders as Senator Smoot, of Utah, and Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, voted against bringing it before that body.

Most certainly Southern California has nothing to fear from Tammany, and this old cry of the corruption of Tammany hall, and especially its influence over Governor Smith, is the mesest nonsense, and no one knows that better than the very leaders of the Republican party who are constantly giving vent to it. The worst enemies of Governor Smith, and we refer particularly to William Allen White, admit that no corruption has ever been laid to Governor Smith, is the merest non-life is above reproach. Furthermore, they admit he has a mind of his own and can never be influenced in betraying the people. Yet with all of this the cry of Tammany is kept constantly in the foreground, with no other purpose than that of beclouding the true issues of the campaign.

Our Republican friends, should above all others remain quiet on corruption, and if they are proud of the past seven years of corruption in their own party, then God pity that party. We can't believe that party as a whole is proud of that record. The common masses are not to be held responsible for some of the crookedness of their leaders, and we do not mean to infer that all of the Republican leaders were crooked. Yet such leaders as the nominee for president, Mr. Hoover, continually shout about the evils of Tammany. Why don't they tell of the gigantic corruption in their own party, particularly the past seven years. No, not a word along that line.

Just permit us to enumerate some of the most prominent of Republicans who disgraced the country, as well as themselves the past seven years:

United States Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary of Interior Albert Fall, Secretary of the Navy Denby and Postmaster General Hays, all members of the Harding cabinet. Are the records of these men to be proud of. Does Mr. Hoover really look with pride on the achievements of his four fellow cabinet members? We hardly believe so, yet we do not hear one word from him about these.

What do we hear of the steal of Mr. Miller, alien property custodian under the Harding administration?

What about Col. Forbes, in control of the disabled veterans' bureau, who stole that bureau blind, and who with Mr. Miller finally received short prison sentences. No, their acts are not mentioned by our Republican leaders or the partisan Republican newspapers.

What about corruption in the Republican party of Indiana? One governor while in office, McGray, convicted and sent to a Federal prison. His successor, the present governor, Jackson, only escaped prison by pleading the statute of limitation. Then there is Stephenson, the Republican leader of that state and head of the Klu Klux Klan, now behind prison bars for rottenness. Many more could be mentioned from that state for extreme rottenness.

What about the stench in the state of Illinois, in which one Smith, attempted to buy his way in the U. S. Senate, and twice rejected by that body. What about the present governor, Small, being made to turn back millions into the state treasury that he stole while treasurer of that state. What about the corruption under Mayor Thompson's administration in Chicago. Why, Tammany in its worst days was never one-half as rotten politically as Chicago is today.

What about the rottenness of Pennsylvania, more especially of the city of Philadelphia under the protection of the great G. O. P. Here we find Congressman Vare attempting to buy his way into the U. S. Senate, and also being rejected by that body. Does the record of the old Mat Quay and Penrose days of Pennsylvania reflect with credit on that day. We hardly believe the decent element of that state can point with pride to that. Their notorious records speak for themselves.

We could speak of the notorious Newberry case in Michigan, who was rejected by the U. S. Senate for purchasing his seat. We could mention the old Cox Republican leadership in Ohio, but we have mentioned enough to convince the average person that the Republican party has no license to speak of Tammany, and to pose as a party of purity and Angelic form.

We hold no brief for Tammany, for there can be no question but what graft at times has existed in that organization, but it is also well-known that this organization is not by any means as bad as it is painted. The corruption of the older days has been practically eliminated, but as for that matter no social organization can ever be entirely free from some large or small graft. The Tammany organization is principally a charitable and social organization, and among its members are to be found some of the brainiest and cleanest men of our country.

Is it fair to condemn Governor Smith for his membership in that organization for acts done by unscrupulous members years ago. It is preposterous, and is it right to accuse the decent Republicans of rottenness because of the great corruption in their own party. The same thing applies to both, and there you are. As previously stated, this old thread-bare cry of Tammany by the Republicans is only done to becloud other issues that they do not wish to be brought to light.

1000 EGGS In EVERY HEN

If You Keep Chickens CUT THIS OUT

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet, it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system—and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get those eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy eggs production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to top notch prices this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 47D Chemical Bldg., Binghampton, N. Y., and a free copy of his "System of Poultry Raising" will be sent by return mail.—Adv.

ORANGE COUNTY MAN PROMOTED BY FRIGIDAIRE

George F. Howard, Orange county and Pomona valley Frigidaire dealer, has announced several important promotions in the ranks of his organization.

In order to assist General Sales Manager J. Clark Chamberlain, in handling the rapidly increasing volume of Frigidaire sales, three supervisors have been appointed, one for each of the three main stores of the Howard company at Santa Ana, Anaheim and Pomona.

Ashleigh K. Chamberlain, an outstanding member of the Howard company sales organization, has been selected to supervise sales in the south half of Orange county.

J. Clark Chamberlain, general sales manager, reports the most pleasing increase in Frigidaire sales over the corresponding period of a year ago. Almost every section of the Howard territory has at least doubled the volume reached last year, producing convincing proof of the stability and prosperity of Orange county, and the increasing interest in mechanical refrigeration.

Although his club won the American association pennant, Owner James O. Perry at Indianapolis says he lost approximately $100,000 this year.

CRASH DEATH ACCIDENT, SAYS INQUEST JURY

A coroner's jury, in an inquest over the body of G. J. Palmer, 70, painter, of 801 Spurgeon street, was killed in an automobile accident at Second and North Main streets Tuesday night, returned a verdict of accidental death. The inquest was held this morning in the Winbigler Mission Funeral home.

At the same time it was announced that Howard Barker, 14, of 842 West Walnut street, driver of the truck which ran down Palmer, still was being held in the county detention home for investigation by the district attorney's office.

In view of the action of the coroner's jury there was some speculation as to whether any definite action against the youth would be taken. S. B. Kaufman, of the district attorney's office, has charge of the investigation.

Palmer was riding a bicycle at the time of the accident and Barker, with several other youths, was in the cab of an ice truck, owned by Thomas Fielding.

HUGH POMEROY URGES SUPPORT OF PARK BONDS

Pointing out that Orange county has many open psaces that may be reserved for the future for public recreational grounds, Hugh R. Pomeroy, secretary of the playgrounds, parks and beaches committee of Los Angeles county, today told Lions present at the meeting of the Santa Ana club that the citizenry of this county should be forward looking enough to at once accept the opportunity of reserving recreation grounds.

The speaker gave emphasis to the point that Los Angeles has lost such an opportunity and he asserted that general regret is expressed by leaders in that county that citizens were not sufficiently foresighted to acquire some of the open spaces when they were available.

Pomeroy recommended a yes vote on the $6,000,000 park bonds to be voted on November 6, explaining that the repayment and the payment of interest would become an obligation on revenue of the state dreived by taxation of public utilities. He asserted there would be no resulting increase in taxes.

Andy Anderson presided at today's meeting in the absence of President W. S. Spicer and W. H. Hillyard officiated as program chairman, assisted by Harold Yost, a member of the committee, who introduced Bert Howard in a series of stories and piano numbers and F. G. Vendeberg in vocal selections.

Announcement was made that the San Diego club would be here November 25 to put on a program for the club and that the Santa Ana club would reciprocate by presenting a program for the San Diego club on November 22.

A stag election-night party at the county fair grounds was announced by Roy King, committee chairman.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, in Sioux Falls, S. D., condemned Hoover's New York speech as one that "pronounced the doom of agricultural legislation."

You would feel flattered too if your old customers you had worked for, for years followed you up stairs and said they were glad to come up; you would feel like I do, giving them the very best you had in you and more than their money's worth.

No Inquest Will Be Held In Death Of Arcadia Woman

The body of Mrs. Carolina Hutslef, 53, Arcadia woman, who committed suicide Tuesday night by swallowing poison and hurling herself off the Anaheim bay bridge, at Seal Beach, will be taken from the Dixon funeral parlors, Huntington Beach, to Alhambra, where the funeral will be held today.

No inquest will be held, it was announced, and Coroner Brown will issue a certificate showing that death was due to an act of self-destruction, it was said.

JAPANESE HELD TO ANSWER FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Masso Kovayshi, 922 Crocker street, Los Angeles, Japanese vegetable dealer, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Frankie McGuire, 7-year-old Huntington Beach youth, in an automobile accident near Talbert, on October 18, was held to answer to the superior court by Justice Kenneth Morrison at the conclusion of the preliminary examination at noon today.

Bail was fixed at $5000, which the defendant was unable to provide.

The McGuire child was riding in a small coupe with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradley, 233 First street, Huntington Beach, at the time of the accident. Glass from the windshield of the machine severed his jugular vein and he died before medical aid could be summoned. The grandparents were cut and bruised in the accident, but were not seriously hurt.

ANAHEIM BOY DEAD BESIDE CYANIDE TANK

Mystery surrounds the death, some time last night, of Donald Cole, 18-year-old son of W. J. Cole, prominent North Orange county rancher, whose body was found this morning on the ranch, five miles west of Anaheim, near several cyanide gas tanks, used last night by a fumigating gang.

A theory that the youth had accidently come to his death from inhaling fumes from a leak in the tank, was suggested this afternoon, as Coroner Charles Brown launched an investigation. Brown has not made his report.

The body has been removed to the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral parlors at Anaheim, where an inquest probably will be held tomorrow.

Young Cole's body was discovered near the tanks this morning by a sister-in-law, Mrs. B. W. Cole, who was returning to the ranch house from a nearby walnut grove.

The youth had not been missed from the home as members of the family were under the impression that he had gone across the street to visit with relatives. When they noticed today that he had not slept in his bed last night, they merely thought, it was said, that he had spent the night in the house across the street and had gone to school from there without returning to his home. He was last seen at 7:30 o'clock last night when he left the family.

Employes of the ranch, who were talked with today, stated that there probably was a leak in the gas tank and that the fumes near the tank were strong today.

Young Cole is survived by his father and mother, and several brothers and sisters, all of whom reside in Orange county. The family is one of the most prominent in Northern Orange county, having been residents of the Anaheim district for the past 35 years.

SILVERTHORN QUITS PASTORATE IN S. A.

The Rev. R. H. Silverthorn, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church for the past two years, has resigned his position to enroll in Stanford university, where he will do student work and study his master's degree.

His resignation takes effect December 1 and he expects to take up his new activities in January.

The Rev. Mr. Silverthorn's successor will be selected next month, it is understood.

The Rev. Mr. Silverthorn came to Santa Ana from Perdue university, Lafayette, Ind., where he was engaged in student work for five years. He did post graduate work at the University of Chicago and also at the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college. He was engaged in missionary work on the Malay peninsula for five years.

A desire to again take up work among students was the reason for his resignation, the Rev. Mr. Silverthorn said today.

MURDERER OF OBREGON WILL BE TRIED SOON

By GESFORD F. FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Jose de Leon Toral, the assassin of President-elect Alfaro Obregon, will go on trial soon with a death sentence the almost inevitable result. Sixteen others, men and women, also will be tried as accomplices and for all the persecution is expected to ask the maximum penalty.

In the case of the women, such as Madre Concepcion, the nun, charged with being the "intellectual author" of the murder, this will be 20 years' imprisonment and for the men death by a firing squad. In some instances, there may be lighter penalties sought.

The number of arrests and the conflicting testimony already taken in the preliminary examinations augus that the trial will be a complicated process. If before the trial begins, the authorities succeed in arresting Manuel Trejo, alleged "key man" of the plot who is said to be hiding in New York, the work of tying the evidence together may be much simpler.

In the case of Toral, of course, there is no doubt as to his guilt. Toral not only confessed his crime but insisted that he alone was responsible. He has so far as any one knows not varied from this stand since his arrest. The chief burden of the prosecution will be to connect his action with Madre Concepcion and the remainder of the "plotters."

Question One of Influence

All evidence seems to indicate that when Toral shot Obregon in the Bombilla restaurant in San Angel, July 17, he accomplished what the 16 now under arrest had hoped would be accomplished for some months. The question is whether Toral acted, as he says, entirely on his own or whether the so-called Madre Concepcion group influenced him.

Upon the proof of the extent of the nun's and the other's power over Toral will largely depend their degree of culpability. Madre Concepcion has assertedly repeatedly that she knew nothing of Toral's intentions although she admitted having told him it would be a good thing for the country if Calles and Obregon were killed.

Madre Concepcion also has denied knowledge of the poison hatpin plot which the conspirators allegedly were to carry out during the visit of Obregon and President Calles to the Spring Festival at Celaya. Likewise she says she knew nothing of the bomb factory maintained next door to her nunnery by Carlos Castro Balda who has admitted responsibility for blowing up part of the Chamber of Deputies.

Because of the personality of Madre "Conchita" and her undoubted influence over the others, the investigation so far has largely centered around her. Like Toral, she is anxious to die a martyr and in all her talk expresses approximately the same feelings.

Confronted with the nun, the remaining members of the group during the course of the investigation have changed their statements regarding her part and contradicted their previous accusations against her which were made in the police headquarters. According to the system pursued in Mexico, it is customary to have prisoners confront each other in cases of this kind for examination.

Testimony Changed

Whenever this has been tried with Madre Conchita it has almost invariably been to her advantage. Under her gaze and with her to correct them, the other members of the group have utrned their accusing testimony about and admitted their first charges were inexact.

Next to the nun and Toral, the person most important is Balda, the bomb-maker. Balda is highstrung and has suffered more than the others during his imprisonment. He is not regarded as a religious fanatic and apparently has no martyr complex.

Balda has promised to make revelations at the trial "that will scandalize the civilized world." Possibly, this means that the so-called political phase of the plots against Obregon may be forthcoming. Castro is known to have been a professional political hanger-on, the kind used in Mexico in a claque for applause or to heckle and boo during a meeting.

Blood tests of Toral made at the request of his family have failed to reveal any insanity. Psychological examinations have been under way for some time. however, and it may be on the basis of these that the defense will plead insanity, although so far physicians have asserted no proof has been given of Toral's incapacity.

Entirely rational and even extremely intelligent, both Toral and Madre Concepcion, reveal no outward signs of abnormality except religious fanaticism.

The Greene Murder Case

By S. S. Van Dine

89. Mrs. Greene is poisoned before Dr. Oppenheimer's examination can be made.

90. The post mortem reveals conclusively that Mrs. Greene's leg muscles were so atrophied that she could not have walked.

91. Ada, when told of the autopsy, insists that she saw her mother's shawl about the figure in the hall, and, on being pressed, admits that Sibella sometimes wore it.

92. During the questioning of Ada regarding the shawl Mrs. Mannheim suggests that it was she herself whom Ada saw in the hall.

93. When Julia and Ada were shot there were, or could have been present in the house: Chester, Sibella, Rex, Mrs. Greene, Von Blon, Barton, Hemming, Sproot and Mrs. Mannheim.

95. When Rex was shot there were, or could have been present in the house: Sibella, Mrs. Greene, Von Blon, Hemming, Sproot and Mrs. Mannheim.

96. When Ada was poisoned there were, or could have been, present in the house: Sibella, Mrs. Greene, Von Blon, Hemming, Sproot and Mrs. Mannheim.

97. When Mrs. Greene was poisoned there were, or could have been, present in the house: Sibella, Von Blon, Ada, Hemming, Sproot and Mrs. Mannheim.

CHAPTER 36

When Markham had finished reading the summary, he went through it a second time. Then he laid it on the table.

"Yes, Vance," he said, "you've covered the main points pretty thoroughly. But I can't see any coherence in them. In fact, they seem only to emphasize the confusion of the case."

Markham glanced again through the pages.

"If it wasn't for certain items, we could make out a case against several people. But no matter what person in the list we may assume to be guilty, we are at once confronted by a group of contradictory and insurmountable facts. This precis could be used effectively to prove that every one concerned is innocent."

"Superficially it appears that way," agreed Vance. "But we first must find the generating line of the design, and then relate the subsidiary forms of the pattern to it."

Markham made a hopeless gesture.

"If only life were as simple as your esthetic theories!"

"It's dashed simpler," Vance asserted. "The mere mechanism of a camera can record life; but only a highly developed creative intelligence with a profound philosophic insight, can produce a work of art."

"Can you make any sense—esthetic or otherwise—out of this?" Markham petulantly tapped the sheets of paper.

"I can see certain traceries, so to speak—certain suggestions of a pattern; but I'll admit the main design has thus far eluded me. The fact is, Markham, I have a feeling that some important factor in this case—some balancing line of the pattern, perhaps—is still hidden from us. I don't say that my resume is insusceptible of interpretation in its present state; but our task would be greatly simplified if we were in possession of the missing integer."

Fifteen minutes later, when we had returned to Markham's main office, Swacker came in and laid a letter on the desk.

"There's a funny one, Chief," he said.

Markham took up the letter and read it with a deepening frown. When he had finished, he handed it to Vance. The letter-head read, "Rectory, Third Presbyterian Church, Stamford, Conn."; the date was the preceding day; and the signature was that of the Rev. Anthony Seymour.

The contests of the letter, written in a small, precise hand, were as follows:

"The Honorable John F. X. Markham,

"Dear Sir: As far as I am aware, I have never betrayed a confidence. But there can arise, I believe, unforeseen circumstances to modify the strictness of one's adherence to a given promise, and indeed impose upon one a greater duty than that of keeping silent.

"I have read in the papers of the wicked and abominable things that have happened at the Greene residence in New York; and I have therefore come to the conclusion, after much heart-searching, that, it is my bounden duty to put in possession of a fact which, as the result of a promise, I have kept to myself for over a year. I would not now betray this trust did I not believe that some good might possibly come of it, and that you, my dear sir, would also treat the matter in the most sacred confidence. It may not help you—indeed, I do not see how it can possibly lead to a solution of the terrible curse that has fallen upon the Greene family—but since the fact is connected intimately with one of the members of that family, I will feel better when I have communicated it to you.

"On the night of August 29 of last year a machine drove up to my door and a man and a woman asked that I secretly marry them. I may say that I am frequently receiving such requests from runaway couples. This particular couple appeared to be well-bred, dependable people, and I concurred with their wishes, giving them my assurances that the ceremony would, as they desired, be kept confidential.

"The names that appeared on the license—which had been secured in New Haven late that afternoon—were Sibella Greene, of New York City, and Arthur Von Blon, also of New York City."

Vance read the letter and handed it back.

"Really, y' know, I can't say that I'm astonished—"

Suddenly he broke off, his eyes fixed thoughtfully before him. Then he roses nervously and paced up and down.

"That tears it!" he exclaimed.

Markham threw him a look of puzzled interrogation.

"What's the point?"

"Don't you see?" Vance came quickly to the District Attorney's desk. "My word! That's the one fact that's missing from my tabulation." He then unfolded the last sheet and wrote:

98. Sibella and Von Blon were secretly married a year ago.

"But I don't see how that helps," protested Markham.

"Neither do I at this moment," Vance replied. "But I'm going to spend this evening in erudite meditation."

The Boston Symphony Orchestra was scheduled that afternoon to play a Bach Concerto and Beethoven's C Minor Symphony; and Vance, on leaving the District Attorney's office, rode direct to Carnegie Hall. He sat through the concert in a state of relaxed receptivity, and afterward insisted on walking the two miles back to his quarters—an almost, unheard-of thing for him.

Shortly after dinner Vance bade me good-night, and, donning his slippers and house-robe, went into the library. I had considerable work to do that night, and it was long past midnight when I finished. On the way to my room I passed the library door, which had been left slightly ajar, and I saw Vance sitting at his desk—his head in his hands, the summary lying before him—in an attitude of oblivious concentration.

He was smoking, as was habitual with him during any sort of mental activity; and the ash-receiv at his elbow was filled with cigarette-stubs. I moved on quietly, marvelling at the way this new problem had taken hold of him.

It was half-past 3 in the morning when I suddenly awoke, conscious of footsteps somewhere in the house. Rising quietly, I went into the hall, drawn by a vague curiosity mingled with uneasiness.

At the end of the corridor a panel of light fell on the wall, and as I moved forward in the semi-darkness I saw that the light issued from the partly open library door. At the same time I became aware that the footsteps, too, came from that room. I could not resist looking inside; and there I saw Vance walking up and down, his chin sunk on his breast, his hands crammed into the deep pockets of his dressing gown. The room was dense with cigarette smoke, and his figure appeared misty in the blue haze. I went back to bed and lay awake for an hour. When finally I dozed off it was to the accompaniment of those rhythmic footfalls in the library.

I rose at 8 o'clock. It was a dark, dismal Sunday, and I had my coffee in the living room by electric light. When I glanced into the library at 9 Vance was still there, sitting at his desk. The reading lamp was burning, but the fire on the hearth had died out. Returning to the living room, I tried to interest myself in the Sunday newspapers; but after scanning the accounts of the Greene case I lit my pipe and drew up my chair before the grate.

It was nearly 10 o'clock when Vance appeared at the door. All night he had been up, wrestling with his self-imposed problem; and the devitalizing effects of this long, sleepless concentration showed on him only too plainly. There were shadowed, circles round his eyes; his mouth was drawn; and even his shoulders sagged wearily. But, despite the shock his appearance gave me, my dominant emotion was one of avid curiosity. I wanted to know the outcome of his all-night vigil; and as he came into the room I gave him a look of questioning expectancy.

When his eyes met mine he nodded slowly.

"I've traced the design," he said, holding out his hands to the warmth of the fire. "And it's more horrible than I even imagined." He was silent for some minutes. "Telephone Markham for me, will you, Van? Tell him I must see him at once. Ask him to come to breakfast. Explain that I'm a bit fagged."

He went out, and I heard him calling to Currie to prepare his bath.

I had no difficulty in inducing Markham to breakfast with us after I had explained the situation; and in less than an hour he arrived. Vance was dressed and shaved, and looked considerably fresher than when I had first seen him that morning; but he was still pale, and his eyes were fatigued.

No mention was made of the Greene case during breakfast, but when we had sought easy chairs in the library, Markham could withhold his impatience no longer.

"Van intimated over the phone that you had made something out of the summary."

"Yes." Vance spoke dispiritedly. "I've fitted all the items together. And it's damnable! No wonder the truth escaped us."

Markham leaned forward, his face tense, unbelieving.

"You know the truth?"

"Yes, I know," came the quiet answer. "That is, my brain has told me conclusively who's at the bottom of this fiendish affair; but even now—in the daylight—I can't credit it. Everything in me revolts against the acceptance of the truth. The fact is, I'm almost afraid to accept it. * * * Dash it all I'm getting mellow, middle-age has crept upon me." He attempted to smile, but failed.

Markham waited in silence.

"No, old man," continued Vance; "I'm not going to tell you now. I can't tell you until I've looked into one or two matters. You see, the pattern is plain enough, but the recognizable objects, set in their new relationships, are grotesque—like the shapes in an awful dream. I must first touch them and measure them to make sure that they're not, after all, mere abortive vagaries.

"And how long will this verification take?" Markham knew there was no use to try to force the issue. He realized that Vance was fully conscious of the seriousness of the situation, and respected his decision to investigate certain points before revealing his conclusions.

ORANGE, Oct. 25.—Plans are being made by C. C. Triplett, school teacher, to conduct members of the Agassiz Club of the Orange union high school on a tide trip to a nearby beach Monday. The trip will be similar to others taken by the club in previous years and will be for the purpose of examining the seaweed and sea animals left by the ebb of the tide.

SUPER-HETERODYNE IS RESULT OF WAR

Necessity often has been called the mother of invention and such truly is the case of the Radiola super-heterodyne, according to Milton Foster, of the Foster-Barker Music company, one of Santa Ana's Radiola dealers.

Prior to America's entry in the World war, according to Foster, the Germans were using a buzzer system of communication which emitted such faint signals that they did not fear interception of their messages.

Upon entry of the U. S. into the struggle, Major Armstrong, recognized as one of the world's foremost radio engineers, constructed a device sufficiently sensitive to pick up the faint signals and the military information thereby gained was of untold value to the allies.

This set, the world's first superheterodyne, had 14 dials, but after the war the General Electric company spent over $1,000,000 and developed that experiment to a point where it manufactured the first Radiola super-heterodyne adapted for home use.

YOUNGEST BROADCASTER

Here's the youngest entertainer to be broadcast by a chain of stations. He's Kenneth Derby and he's just past his third birthday. Kenneth "speaks pieces" on the Children's Hour, which is an NBC feature heard every Sunday morning. His sister, Jean, got him this job, and he likes it. So do his little listeners, as their letters show.

WE DON'T WANT KGO TO LOSE ITS CLEAR CHANNEL, BUT WE THINK WGY SHOULD HAVE ONE

By THE RADIO EDITOR

Despite a storm of protest from practically all parts of the country and the charges of Martin P. Rice, manager of broadcasting for the General Electric company, that the radio commission is attempting to cripple one of the world's greatest stations, the commission yesterday notified station WGY that it could not consider its application for full time use of a wave lengh already assigned to the Pacific coast.

WGY, news dispatches said, had been notified that it must amend its application to ask for a different wave before a hearing could be granted.

So that is that. WGY probably hasn't lost its fight as yet, but it certainly hasn't gained any satisfaction from the radio commission.

To grant WGY's request, the commission pointed out, would be to deprive Pacific coast stations of their present broadcasting privileges and would interfere seriously with radio reception from station KGO, in Oakland. The Oakland station, under present plans, shares time with WGY on the clear channel at 790 kilocycles.

Naturally we fans on the Pacific coast desire to keep KGO on a clear channel and with a time all its own, for under such conditions KGO will be in a position to present us with some very fine programs.

However, we also believe that WGY should have a cleared channel of its own, for as Rice points out, a population of approximately 3,000,000 persons in and around Schenectady is almost solely dependent on WGY for its radio entertainment. The New York City stations, with four cleared wave lengths and serving about 7,000,000 persons, cannot be relied upon in this area because of fading and static, he says.

The situation also has its pathetic side and it is our belief that, if for no other reason, the pleas made by invalids, blind and shut-ins should be sufficient to turn the radio commission to some action which will assure it of a clear channel on a different wave.

Rev. Porter To Deliver KWTC Talk

The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the Christian church here, will broadcast a five minute broadside in support of Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for president, over KWTC, Santa Ana, at 5:55 p. m. today.

G. O. P. headquarters in Santa Ana announced today the radio speakers who will be on the air tonight and tomorrow, including Charles Evans Hughes, who will address the nation in a one-hour speech from 5 to 6 p. m., tomorrow. The talk will be given to Southern California and Orange county over KPLA and KMTR.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith will be heard tomorrow over KFI from 7:30 to 8 p. m.

KPLA will present Miss Jeanette Campbell and Homer Wright tomorrow from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m. At 8 a. m., tomorrow there will be a five-minute talk over KMTR.

The women's division will have speakers on 24 stations from 9:15 to 9:45 a. m., tomorrow.

HURD AND FLOHRI ON SAME PROGRAM

Coming as one of the greatest surprises in the history of radio broadcast in Southern California, KFI will present its popular stars, Miss Virginia Flohri and Robert Hurd, in a program that promises to equal if not surpass anything they have ever done, from 8:30 to 9:30 tonight, it was announced today by Carl Haverlin, commercial manager of the station.

In addition to this, music lovers of KFI's huge audience will be treated to an additional surprise, which will be announced just prior to the program. Pryor Moore and his orchestra will accompany the stars on the program.

KSL Uses Day-Fan To Test Its Own Program For Tone

According to R. P. Preston, of the Preston Radio company, 211 East Fourth street, radio station KSL, Salt Lake City, has installed a Day-Fan eight-tube receiver to check their programs for tone and modulation.

Preston said: "I can readily understand this action on their part The Day-Fan has caused more favorable comment on its tonal qualities than any radio we ever have seen."

According to Preston quite a few Santa Ana fans have had Day-Fans for over five years and these are still giving good results.

SOPRANOS NOT TO BLAME IF VOICES HARSH

True reproduction of a musical concert or the voice by radio depends on so many factors that it is difficult and expensive to provide the fidelity that many prospective customers are taught to expect, according to R. H. Manson, chief engineer of the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing company.

"Additional obstacles were introduced at the transition from battery-operated to socket-powered receivers, or what is known as full electric receivers," asserts Mr. Manson. "Alternating electric current sets up disturbances which are readily reproduced in the loud-speaker unless adequate rectifying and filtering systems are employed.

Expensive To Produce

The latter are expensive to produce and any attempt to reduce costs by cutting down on these items usually results in either an audible hum in the loud-speaker or in cutting off the low frequencies in order to make the receiver insensitive to these disturbances. In new receivers adequate filtering and other precautions to separate low frequency hums are ample to do the job without making the audio system insensitive to the lower musical notes.

"The prospective purchaser has been taught to demand good tonal quality, but unfortunately he does not recognize good tonal quality when he hears it, for the reason that a demonstration of organ music or jazz often sounds good on receivers and loud-speakers on which the audio-range is limited.

Severe Test

"The reproduction of voices, especially the male voices in a quartet, or a soprano is a severe test of an instrument's ability to give accurate reproduction. Many radio listeners condemn a radio soprano as a poor radio performer because of the harshness and unnaturalness with which this voice comes through. This is caused by lack of attention to the design of the high frequency end of the audio system. Likewise, if the audio-system is deficient at the low end the male voice will not come through with natural fullness.

"Also, if the loud-speaker is deficient at this end the speaking voice will not come through naturally. Many speakers are made resonant to some of the lower frequencies and give what is known as 'rain-barrel effects,' producing a kind of distortion that results in garbled reproduction. Of course if the loud-speaker reproduction of a man's voice is poor, it is also poor on music, but unfortunately the speaker is not able to get a direct comparison with the music produced before the microphone, and so fails to recognize the musical distortion."

FLORIDA U. ON AIR

The University of Florida has joined other educational institutions in broadcasting a "University of the Air." This goes out over WRUF, the university's own 5000-watt station.

SPEAKER IN EACH ROOM

The Canadian Pacific Railway's new 27-story hotel, the Royal York, at Toronto, will have each of its guest rooms equipped with a loudspeaker. Over 1000 rooms will be thus equipped.

SHE'S A VETERAN

June Pursell, featured artist for KNX, Los Angeles, may consider herself a veteran of radio, as this new art goes. She has just celebrated her fourth anniversary before the microphone. She has won fame not only in radio but in vaudeville, as a singer of popular songs.

PRESTON AND HAWLEY WILL HAVE GRAYBARS

The Graybar Electric company announced today that it had appointed the Preston Radio company, on East Fourth street, and Hawley's Sporting Goods and Radio store, on Sycamore street, as its Santa Ana distributors for Graybar radios.

The Graybar lines, it was pointed out, will comprise a six-tube radio frequency set and an eight-tube super-heterodyne, both of which come in attractive cabinets. The Graybar company also makes the Western Electric 560 AW speaker.

In connection with the announcement that he had taken over the Graybar franchise here, Hawley also revealed that men now are at work remodelling his radio department to give a better background for demonstration and make room for the additional equipment he expects and for a complete radio laboratory. Hawley also handles Atwater-Kent and Bosch receiving sets.

Hawley's complete new laboratory will include equipment for testing and servicing all makes of radios and he also will carry spare parts for leading makes of receivers. The department is in charge of George Mason. Hawley also revealed that he had added C. E. Musgrave to his sales staff.

RADIO'S REWARD

Virginia Flohri, featured artist at KFI, Los Angeles, who has spent years before the microphone entertaining the public, now is reaping the rewards of her efforts. She has been proclaimed one of the outstanding sopranos of Southern California and now has a number of pupils coming to her for instruction.

RADIO AND NEWSPAPERS OF TODAY REACH OUT TO SPOTS EVEN BRYAN COULDN'T TOUCH

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Presidential campaigns never again will be what they used to be.

William Jennings Bryan traveled more than 18,000 miles in the campaign of 1896 and spoke as often as he could persuade the engineer to stop. But it won't happen again.

For several reasons. First, the radio has changed everything. Today the candidate can reach millions from one end of the country to the other.

If campaign speeches decide elections, then radio and the newspapers will provide that decisive factor rather than personal stump speeches of the candidates regarded from the standpoint of their effect within earshot.

Good Health Important

Again, political parties have come to realize that it is important to keep their candidate in good health. The horrible possibility that a candidate might collapse or even die during a campaign, leaving his party in an unprecedentedly unfortunate position, has often been brought home to them.

Another reason Bryan's record is not likely to be beaten is that he was only 36 years old, and possessed of powerful physique. Hoover and Smith are no cripples, but each is 18 years older than Bryan. It probably will be a long time before we have another 36-year old candidate.

The most cognent reason of all for the curtailment of speaking programs for the candidates again gets us back to the radio. It explains why Governor Smith has not been making a far more arduous campaign and accepting the many requests he has had for additional speeches.

Musn't Repeat

A candidate has only so many good speeches in his system—so many different speeches, that is. There are only certain issues on which he dares to touch at all.

But over the radio he can't make the same speech twice. If he does, most of his audience is likely to exclaim that they've heard that one before and turn the dial. That, your correspondent judged from a few nights of listening in, was the main trouble with Borah's speaking tour in Smith's wake.

It is now being explained that, for the reason outlined, Smith simply can't afford to accept more invitations for speeches than he considers vitally necessary. Especially if he is to save his supreme effort for the last week or two before election day.

He is confining himself to about 20 speeches for the cam-

Short Radio Waves May Be T. B. Cure

BREMEN, Germany, Oct. 25.—Radio may be of untold benefit to medical science, if the experiments of Prof. Esau of Jena on mice prove adaptable to humans.

Professor Esau inoculated 30 mice with tuberculosis germs and exposed 15 of them to ultra-short radio waves. After a month, the 15 mice treated were well and normal. The other 15 died of consumption.

DEVICES WHICH CAUSE NOISES ARE REVEALED

By The Radio Editor

While the rank and file of radio fans generally believe that all queer little buzzes and hums inside their radio receiving sets come from two causes, static or a leak in that blankety blank transformer out there on the post in the alley, such unfortunately seldom is the case.

Actually transformer leaks are almost as scarce as those proverbial hens' teeth. This naturally creates the question as to what the noise we hear really is.

If you hear a roaring in the headphones or loudspeaker or a sound suggestive of eggs being fried in butter—that is interference which can be eliminated. There is another source of interference in Southern California which is quite a different thing and that is the interference of one broadcasting station with another.

No Cure For Some Ills

Nothing can cure this short of a miracle or action on the part of the federal commission, so this will not be discussed at this time. Crackles, hums, moans, roars and sputters are something else again and their source should be looked for first in your own home.

Among the devices which, if not properly safeguarded, are prolific noise makers, are the following: Arc lights, electric irons, automatic railway signals, electric curlers, soldering irons, shaving mug heaters, vibratory rectifiers, flash signs, small motors, X-ray machines, electric meters, telephone magnetos, doorbells and buzzers.

Dishwashers, soda mixers, electric typewriters, electric computators, dust precipitators, automatic towels, electric refrigerators, motor

KPO PRESENTS FINE CONCERTS SUNDAY NIGHTS

An outstanding radio program is presented every Sunday night, starting at 6:30, from KPO, when the KPO Symphony orchestra concert is put on the air. This orchestra numbers 25 members and is under the direction of Nathan Abas, a leader of wide renown. The bulk of the world's greatest symphonic literature is included in the repertoire of the orchestra. The numbers incorporated into their programs range from Beethoven to Gershwin.

The personnel of the first chairmen of the KPO Symphony orchestra is largely made up of the men who occupy that capacity with the San Francisco orchestra. Many famed instrumentalists are numbered in this list; Anthony Linden, flutist; Vladimir Drucker, trumpet; Harold Randall, clarinet; Louis Previatti, double bass; Romain Verney, viola; Walter Honig, French horn; Frederick Tait, trombone, and Paul Kubischek, bassoon.

On alterante Sunday, Nathan Abas plays violin solos and Michel Penha plays cello solos, accompanied by the orchestra. Both men are Hollanders by birth and education and are excellent artists. Holland s traditionally famous for the many instrumentalists who have won plaudits of the world. Both Abas and Penha uphold this tradition and have gained international renown. Michel Penha is the solo cellist with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra.

EVER HEAR THE OWD?

If you've never heard the "owd" tune in on KFI, Los Angeles—if you can reach it. It's said to be the mother of all stringed instruments and is being played by David Bonnesar, Egyptian soloist.

Before The Mike

So many and so widely dispersed are the new series of entertainments planned for this fall and winter that it is hard to keep up with the changes. For example, Station WBZ at Springfield, with its twin station WBZA at Boston, recorded 23 new programs during the month of October alone!

Battle

Every day, for the last six years, Rex Battle has led his Mount Royal Hotel orchestra before the microphone of station CFCF, there. Yet he is still one of the most popular entertainers on the air in Canada. Battle is a pianist of renown. He played before King George of England and won fame in a concert tour of the United States in 1913.

Among the broadcasters who are alert to the new season's opportunities is WMAQ at Chicago. This station has scheduled no less than nine new daytime features for women within a week's time!

Since Tex Rickard has decided broadcasing championship fights is disastrous to the pocketbook, the next best thing for radio-fight fans is to listen to the occasional fight features out of WTAM, Cleveland. This station has already re-enacted two of the older classics through the virile and spectacular announcements of the red-handed Tom Manning, WTAM's sports announcer. These were the Sullivan-Corbett and Corbett-Fitzsimmons battles of 30-odd years ago.

The RCA Demonstration Hour that has been running on Saturday afternoons, recedes in favor of football and takes the air on Wednesdays at 2:30 instead.

Rondolla Hawaiian Syncopators, WIP, Philadelphia, Tuesdays at 8 eastern time.

Miss Karasick

Radio Station WCFL, Chicago, boasts not only of good entertainers but of winning beauties, awaiting the days of television. There's Bernice Karasick, for instance, who promises to make as good an appearance before the television transmitter as she does today in singing before the microphone. She's the soprano of WCFL and appears every Thursday evening at 8, central time.

In the same announcement that Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, may be heard for an hour instead of their previous half hour on the Columbia system, Sunday nights, we learn that this network has added eight stations on the Pacific coast.

KOMO PLANS TO PRESENT NAVY DAY PROGRAM

On KOMO's calendar a red circle appears around October 27. This date is Theodore Roosevelt's birthday, but in addition, for the last few years, it has been set aside as Navy day. Following the policy instituted by its predecessor KTLC, KOMO has always considered October 27 as a red letter day, setting aside time for an appropriate Navy day program.

B. F. Fisher, manager of KOMO believes that the Pacific northwest is particularly interested in the U. S. navy, especially in view of the fact that the Bremerton navy yards, located on ,Puget Sound, bring new ships and visitors to the Pacific coast each year.

Co-operating with Totem broadcasters, Lieutenant Comander Leonard, U. S.N. R., of the 13th naval district, has arranged the full program to be broadcast on Navy day this year. This program will be released to a chain of northwest stations with KOMO as a key station. KGW, Portland, and KHQ, Spokane, are the other two members of this chain.

Music for the program will be furnished by 25 piece band from the U. S. S. Saratoga, one of Uncle Sam's two big airplane carriers now at the Bremerton navy yard. The speaker for the program will be Lt. John R. Sullivan, assistant battery officer of the U. S. S. Saratoga.

The time of the program is from 10 to 11 p. m., October 27.

Radio Pirates Pay For Others' Sets

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—Possibly Germany's "radio pirates" didn't think they would be doing someone else a good turn when they bought sets and used them without a government license.

However, the 5686 unlicensed sets seized by government officials during the past two or three years are going to do someone a lot of good.

The state of Prussia is disposing of such sets by giving them to prisons, charitable organizations, war cripples and people blinded in the war.

MAJESTIC OWNERS GET JAP STATIONS

Radio fans all are setting their alarm clocks for 2:30 a. m., these days and arising at that hour in an attempt to tune in a Japanese station on their radios, according to Nelson V. Edgar, of the Turner Radio company, Majestic representative here.

There really is no trick in tuning in the Japanese stations, according to Edgar, the only requisite being to remain awake in the dark and cold of early morning. Stations in which Majestic owners have tuned in, according to Edgar, and their dial numbers on the Majestic, include JOAK, 37 and 45; JOBK, 54; JOCK, 44; JODK, Korea; JOFK, 39; JOGK, 46; JOHK 51, and JOIK, 44.

Edgar said that there seems to be some confusion in regard to the wave-lengths used, and pointed out that the stations do not abide by their published wave-lengths. Then, in at least one case, two stations operate under one call (JOAK), on different wave-lengths. Most of them announce in English, if you wait long enough.

KGO Is Silenced 4 Times In Year By SOS Signals

SOS calls from ships at sea have silenced KGO, the Pacific coast station of the General Electric company, four times within the last year.

One of the distress signals was from the Coos Bay, sent when this lumber schooner went on the rocks near San Francisco. Two came from ships that managed to get out of their trouble without much difficulty. The fourth was a "false alarm."

Federal regulations demand that operators listen in for ship signals three minutes out of every 15 the station is on the air. The men handling the controls of the KGO transmitter have been to sea and knowing what a few minutes mean to a ship in need, listen in continuously.

GOOD FOR DEALERS

The reallocation of broadcasting stations will bring greater sales and more profits to radio dealers, according to Gordon C. Sleeper, radio manufacturer.

SCHOOLS LAUD STANDARD OIL MUSIC COURSE

From schools in every section of the Pacific coast letters and telegrams praising the new Standard School Broadcast are pouring into the NBC headquarters, following the inaugural program last Thursday morning, from 11:30 to 12 o'clock. These letters come not only from cities but from remote towns and villages. In many cases entire grades and small schools have written expressing their appreciation for this unique program.

While this new educational series, prepared by Arthur S. Garbett is intended primarily for schools and school children, the programs are generally instructive and hold an appeal for any listener.

The morning lecture describes the compositions to be played in the evening, discusses the composers and illustrates in detail what the composer tries to achieve and how he does it.

Covering a wide field of music, this new series of 2 lessons will be broadcast every Thursday morning through NBC system stations. Each lecture will be followed by the evening concert by the Standard Symphony orchestra, playing an hour's program from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

Schools not equipped with radio sets will be issued the lectures in printed form by the Standard Oil company.

A short talk on Bach will be a feature of the Standard Symphony Hour program tonight, preceding the playing of a Bach-Mahler suite. The hour will be divided into four sections, the first devoted to modern classics, the second to Bach and his music, the third to modern dance music, and the fourth to the music of Handel. Max Dolin will conduct the orchestra during the Standard hour.

Get Faithful Reproduction of the Low Tones

Your radio can't have fine tone quality unless it gives you fidelity of reproduction on the low tones. Here is why:

Radio reproduction is based on the principle of transforming radio waves in the air into waves that can be heard by the human ear. All sound is the result of waves. In radio language we call them frequencies. The number of frequencies per second determines the pitch or tone.

For example, the tone of the highest key on a standard piano keyboard has 4340 frequencies. The next highest has 4096—a difference of 244. A slight distortion of these values cannot be detected by the ear.

But the tone of the lowest key on an organ has 16 frequencies. And the next 16 94-100—less than one frequency difference. A very slight variation in the response of the speaker here will result in unfaithful reproduction.

It is not difficult to get good reproduction on the high tones. The important thing is to get faithful reproduction on the low tones. That is the real test of tone quality. That is why you should make sure to choose a radio that gives you fidelity of reproduction on the lower tones.

Of course it isn't possible to express the tones of the bass viol in words, but you will understand what we mean. The bass viol is a very low toned instrument its highest tone being just slightly above the lowest one on a violin.

It's another one of those instruments whose beauty and charm is likely to be lost over the radio, if the receiving set does not give fidelity of reproduction on low tones. For it is the purpose of the bass viol to provide the low tones, and unless you get them properly it might as well not be there.

Today the pleasure of owning a radio is in having perfect tone quality—faithful reproduction, especially on the low tones since they are the hardest to reproduce exactly.

This is the reason that those with a trained ear for music choose the new improved Day-Fan set. It responds to the lowest tones just as faithfully as the higher ones. It brings in the instrument with full naturalness—in its correct pitch and timbre.

Q.—I thought you could perhaps tell me how and what accessories to buy to get these Japanese stations. I would be well pleased if I could hear some of our eastern stations. Denver is the farthest station I can tune in. I have a seven-tube set. —T. R. J., Santa Ana.

A.—Your set should be powerful enough to play stations more distant than you have received, taking for granted that all conditions are normal. With your location, however, right on the Pacific Electric line, you may be at a disadvantage owing to the interference created by their cars and automatic signal devices. We would suggest that you get in touch with the dealer from whom you purchased your receiver and have him thoroughly check the set, tubes, voltages, antenna and ground. With the set working normally you should play Chicago and St. Louis at any time and other good sets will do so. As for Japanese stations it is necessary to stay up until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning to receive these stations as 2 a. m., here is 7 p. m., in Japan.

Q.—I operate my six-tube Atwater Kent with an "A" battery and a 'B" eliminator of standard make. I notice that when a toaster in use in the kitchen is operating the volume of sound through the loud-speaker is increased. When the current in the toaster is switched off the volume declines. The thought occurred to me that I am not getting normal volume through some misadjustment of the eliminator; that it is perhaps overloaded and the operation of the toaster relieves it of a part of this overload and therefore improves the volume without causing any distortion of sound. —E. R. M., Santa Ana.

A.—Your deduction may be correct. Have a competent radio service man test the "B" voltages delivered to the set while operating. If it is not possible to adjust the "B" potentials from the eliminator to that which will operate the set without the trouble mentioned, use a 50-ohm variable resistor permanently connected in one of the lighting wires leading to the input of the eliminator. Adjust the resistor to a point where the set is least affected by the turning on or off of the toaster. The trouble indicates that there is too heavy a current drain through the lighting wires when everything is operating causing the voltage to drop.

Q.—I have a five-tube set which for the last three years has given good results. I would like to increase the volume and tone quality by installing a power tube by means of an adapter. I have a 90-volt "B" battery, an "A" battery with trickle charger, and a cone loud-speaker. What power tube is best suited for the set and what "B" and "C" voltages? —A. W., Orange.

A.—Either the 112-A or 171-A type of power tube. The 112-A is specified by manufacturers for best operation with a plate voltage of 135 and a 9-volt "C" battery. The 171-A for best operation needs a plate voltage of 180 and a "C" voltage of 40.5 volts. When the power tube plate supply is greater than 135 volts the loud-speaker should be protected by an output transformer or a condenser-choke coil combination to prevent the speaker coil from being burned out by heavy currents.

Q.—Please let me know if there is a new 201-B six-volt radio tube coming on the market, which consumes but one-eighth of an ampere of "A" current, to take the place of the 201-A tube. A. V., Santa Ana.

A.—Such a radio tube has been placed on the market in Canada by the Canadian Westinghouse company, but due to the trend in this country toward AC tubes and sets it has not been considered practical for our market.

BALLROOM OPENING TO BE BROADCAST

Three California radio stations, serving every part of the state, will be joined by telephone lines for a chain broadcast for two hours tonight, between 9 and 11 o'clock, Pacific standard time, and will release what is destined to be a spectacular program which will be presented in connection with the formal dedication of "Sala de Oro", "The Room of Gold"—the largest and most magnificent ballroom of any hotel in the world, which has just been completed in the new addition to the Los Angeles Biltmore hotel.

The three radio stations which will release this special treat for the benefit of the general public are the Don Lee station, KHJ, Los Angeles; the Fresno Bee station, KMJ, Fresno, and the Don Lee station, KFRC, San Francisco. Since KHJ has exclusive rights to broadcast everything emanating from the Biltmore, the program will be released through its equipment, by remote control, and sent northward by telephone lines. The program will also be rebroadcast by KFWB, Hollywood; KGFJ, KMTR, KPLA, Los Angeles; KFWC, Pomona; KMIC, Inglewood and KFON, Long Beach.

War Department Net Shows Saving

The war department radio net saved governmental departments $141, 579.06, for the second half of the fiscal year 1928.

Department figures show that had messages sent by the department been placed on commercial wires, the cost would have been $164,195.42 instead of $22,316.38 by the radio net.

With the exception of the department, the agriculture, commerce, justice, labor and navy departments and the veterans' bureau are greatest users of the radio chain.

Lindgren Still Is Leading Distance Fans For October

A. W. Lindgren's score of 237 still is the highest made by members of the Federal DX club during October, Keith Howard, Federal radio representative here, announced today. Lindgren is followed by Naomi Schoenrock, who has 156 for the month,, and Billie Renfrow, with 109. Naomi Schoenrock, however, has the largest grand score, with 575.

Lindgren's log book includes six stations in Japan, one in Australia, one in Hawaii and one in Siberia. He is experimenting with excellent results, with a large remote control loop.

According to Howard, Judge James L. Allen is the latest DX fan to join the Federal club. Judge Allen already has logged four Japanese stations, he has reported.

paign. Including his acceptance speech, he now has made eight talking on farm relief, religious bigotry, Republican corruption, water power, prohibition, state issues in New York and inland waterways. There is more for him to talk about, including the tariff, but not a great deal.

Few Personal Appearances

There is little doubt that, barring the radio handicap, Smith would gladly have accepted the opportunity to make several additional addresses. Instead he is forced to content himself with personal appearances through part of the contested territory.

Hoover is up against a similar handicap, but is fortunate in that it fits in with his strategy. That strategy has been to virtually ignore Smith and so the fewer speeches he makes the better.

Smith is trying to sell himself to the country; Hoover believes that he has already been sold to the country and that conditions can win for him with little positive aid from himself.

MORE STATIONS ASK HIGH POWER PERMIT

The granting of an increase of power to Station WLW in Cincinnati 25,000 watts permanently and another 25,000 watts under the experimental clause—seems to indicate that the death of high power for program broadcasting is not in sight, despite the radio commission's decision that 25,000 watts was the maximum power which a station should use under ordinary conditions.

RADIO TEACHER

Teaching radio broadcasting is the brand new profession that Hester Bell has invented. As an instructor in vocal expression, the pretty Washington girl was pained by the muddled enunciation that speakers and singers poured into microphones. So she's teaching them how to make themselves clearly heard.

Sturkow Ryder To Broadcast Tonight

Madame Sturkow Ryder, proclaimed as one of the four leading pianists in the world and an artist and composer of world wide note, will broadcast from KNX tonight, starting at 8 p. m.

On the same program will be Vera Barstow, violinist, and Rosalie Barker, contralto.

Radio Proves Of Great Assistance Trapping Crooks

A radio set installed at the Carquinez bridge, near Oakland, is assisting in trapping criminals using this span in making a quick getaway from the San Francisco bay cities to the Canadian border.

Men on the bridge keep the set tuned in the 24 hours they are on duty. Through KGO, the transbay broadcaster of the General Electric, San Francisco and Oakland police departments give them descriptions of any lawbreakers headed north.

RADIO WARNS OF FLOOD

Broadcasting of daily flood warnings in Australia is proving of great value to grazers whose flocks pasture along river banks. It has been found that it takes about three days for flood waters to travel 70 miles by air line, and when warnings are sent by radio, the shepherds have ample time to move their flocks to safety.

YUP, LUCKY FOR YANKS

Just lucky, was Lou Gehrig's reply to those who congratulated him on his tremendous home-run clouting during the world series.

"I outguessed the Card pitchers and that's why I was lucky enough to get some good blows," he said after the last game. "My home runs were scored on pitches that were to my liking and which I had figured out would be thrown. I merely guessed what was coming and got ready to hit and the rest was easy."

A very logical explanation and, in truth, a modest one.

GIVE ME THE FIVE

Another interesting story of the world series hinges around the missionary zeal of John McGraw to spread baseball to the far corners of the earth. McGraw witnessed the series as a literary expert and therein lies the story. He happened to tell some of the writers that he had received an offer from a Canadian newspaper to cover the series for them. The pay offered was five bucks.

"Did you take it?" he was asked.

"I sure did," he replied. "I figured that if that paper way up there in Canada was interested enough in the series and in my ability to want me to write it for them I should accept any kind of an offer."

GOOD IF YOU'RE GOOD

It is unfortunate for him, at least, that Bill McKechnie may become the goat of the world series and lose his job as manager of the Cardinals. If fate plays with him as well as it has in the past McKechnie will pop up with another good job but it will not be pleasant to have it in the books that he blew the series with a team that was an overwhelming favorite to win.

McKechnie, during the series, was in the same position that every manager is in almost every game. When his way works he is a wow. When his strategy fails he is a bust. And McKechnie's went wrong in the series.

WRONG DEFENSE

Smart baseball men say that the two doubles that Babe Ruth hit in the first game and started the Yankees going with a tremendous momentum should have been fielded.

Johnny Evers says that McKechnie made a terrible blunder in shifting his infield and his outfield in the same direction twice for the Babe and that Douthit, if he had not been out of position, certainly should have caught the Babe's second double. Evers is a smart baseball man and his wasn't a second guess. He made the observation to a neighbor when the Babe was at the bat.

So much for that.

RAPS FOR WILSON

One of the greatest old catchers of all times, now a National league official, said that McKechnie's greatest mistake was in allowing Wilson to remain behind the bat after the judgment he had shown on the batters in the first game.

He said that a peanut boy in the stands could have seen that Gehrig was set for a slow ball and that Meusel was dug in for a fast ball and Wilson permitted Sherdel to serve the order.

He said that Wilson was terrible the whole time he was working and that Smith should have been put in if for no other reason than that he was a fighting ball played and is recognized as

San Clemente Dons To Play Pasadena

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 25.—Having lost to the Shell Oil nine at Ventura last Sunday, 3 to 1 the San Clemente Dons are preparing to invade Pasadena this Sunday, where they will play the Pasadena Merchants at Tournament Park. Manager Frank Holborow has signed three new men for the game, Robert Worthington, outfielder, Houston, Texas league; Felix Vigare, infielder, Waco, Texas league; "Bud" King, catcher, Boise, Utah-Idaho league.

Bob Meusel Signs Ball For Friend

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 25.—It is not often that a person secures a baseball with the genuine autograph of one of the world series champion players on it, but Ed Moore, of Newport Beach is the proud possessor of such a trophy. Moore has on display in his confectionery store at Newport Beach a baseball signed by Bob Meusel, New York Yankee outfielder.

Meusel is an old time friend of Moore and was in Newport Beach this week to visit Moore. Harry Stewart, former pitcher for the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league was with Meusel during his short visit here.

LOCAL COLLEGE TAPERS OFF IN GRID PRACTICE

By JIMMIE ROACH

Coach Bill Cook today called a halt to the feverish preparations that have been going on in the Santa Ana junior college football ranks and ordered his squad to taper off their work between now and Saturday when they battle the tough Long Beach Vikings at Poly field here in a Southern California J. C. conference contest.

The game promises to be a humdinger in every sense of the word for Long Beach, earlier in the season not considered as of championship caliber, has improved tremendously and by its defeat of Glendale last Saturday is now one of the conference top notchers. The Dons, on the other hand, while they have not been defeated in a league game, were tied by Pasadena and their standing in the conference is still triple zero. For that reason if for no other, the men who battle for Santa Ana college will enter the fracas with a determined spirit to win.

Bill Cook

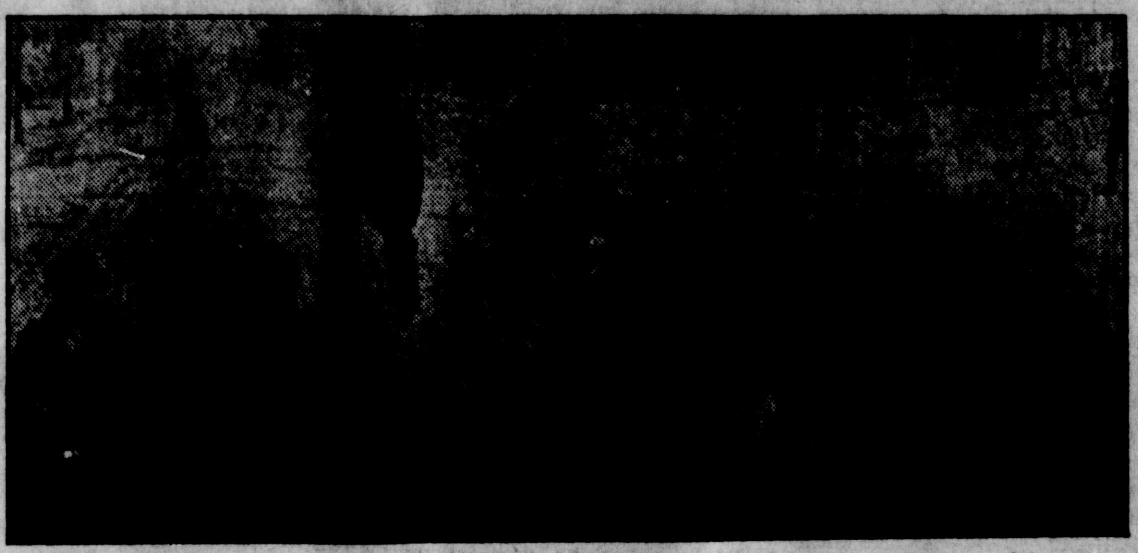
The game will be interesting from any standpoint for with Cook planning on using his fleetest backfield and line, the Dons should provide some thrills in the matter of long runs. "Reg" Rust will be at his old halfback berth part of the game and if he will go like he is capable, he ought to tear off the yardage in big chunks. Norton, Guyer, Dutton, Harvey, Preble, Manderscheid are some of the boys who will be given an opportunity to tote the ball and every one of them is as good in his department as skill and practice can make him. Coach Cook is pinning a lot of hope on the ability of these boys to dodge the Long Beach tacklers and put the pigskin down the field on every play.

The forward wall of the local aggregation will be as strong as is possible under existing conditions. The men who will start are probably the same who began against Pasadena. They functioned beautifully for the greater part of the game and much is expected of them this week also.

INTERFERENCE READY? AVAUNT COMRADES!

Santa Ana's elementary schools have furnished this city with a rich football heritage and old Third Street school, now McKinley, did more than its share in the years that have flown. Below is Third Street's motley array of 1909 which was coached by a woman, Miss Hazel Bemus, now supervisor of art in the public schools here, and which never knew defeat.

In the musty photograph, reading from left to right, are Pete Duhart, end; then a boy whose name is yet one of the burning mysteries of the day; Jack Tedford, guard; Eddie McGaffey, center; (Eddie got nervous and moved when the picture was taken); Walter Pease, guard; Leroy ("Stubb") Clapp, tackle; Hope Glover, end. In the backfield are Alex ("Ec") Lacy, quarter, who is directly behind the center, and, from left to right, Tom Lacy, halfback; Bill Warren, fullback, and Lee Brown, halfback.



Farrell Meets Hagen For Crown Sunday

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Johnny Farrell, Open golf champion, starts today for St. Louis where Sunday he will play Walter Hagen in the the fifth and final 36-hole match for the world's "unofficial" championship.

Thereafter the pair will engage in exhibition matches and tournaments at Joplin, Mo., Oklahoma City and Coast cities including Seattle, Tacoma and Portland.

OLIVER TO USE WURSTER, LINE STAR, AT END

Frank Wurster, the Jess Hibbs of the Santa Ana high school football line, may, just like Hibbs, be transformed from a tackle to an end within the next few days, it was understood among the Saints today.

Wurster, who played on the local eleven in 1926 but was ineligible last year, started the season as first string left tackle but he suffered severe injuries in the first set-to of the campaign and has not seen service since. He is in condition again now although more than 15 pounds under his usual fighting weight of 180.

But now that he is back, Oliver finds the Saints have developed some very fair tackles in Stan Hardin, Alfred Poulsen, Warren Dubois and Glenn Hartman. But Oliver is dissatisfied with his backs and he would use his crack end, "Red" Cooke, in the backfield if he could find somebody to take Cooke's place at end. George Berry, a letterman, was to have replaced Cooke but Berry is proving too brittle for a regular post, being laid up again, and Wurster, rapidly regaining his playing poise,

WALLY FRAZIER TRIUMPHS OVER GEORGE CLAIRE

Class nearly always tells and so Wally Frazier, the consistent Hawthorne light heavyweight, just plugged along in his steady style of milling and earned a three-round decision over the muscular George Claire, of Vernon, in the main event at the Orange County Amateur Athletic club last night.

It was a slow affair for two rounds but Wally came along with a third round flourish which left nothing for the judicial body to do but award the Hawthorne heavy the palm. For that matter Frazier had an edge in the first two stangas, too.

This was Frazier's fourth straight victory at the Orange County punch palace.

Next Wednesday's "main" will be waged between Jesse

San Clemente Club In Semi-Pro Loop

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 25.—Plans were laid in Los Angeles for the formation of a Triple A semi-pro league when baseball managers of Southern California met in the movie city earlier in the week. The league is slated to be made up of four clubs, Shell Oil, Ventura, Pasadena Merchants, Pacific Electric, Los Angeles and the San Clemente Dons. The playing season will be 10 weeks.

Burke Thrown Out Of Bay City Ring

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Billy Burke, San Francisco lightweight was chased from the ring in the fifth round here last night and Joe Guerrero, Los Angeles, was given the decision. The referee tossed out Burke for stalling.

Brea Plans For 'Big Day' While Playing Indians

BREA, Oct. 25.—Whether the varsity team of Brea-Olinda wins or loses when the team meets Fullerton on the Brea field tomorrow, one thing is certain—the Brea crowd is bent on having a good time out of the event.

Merchants of the town have contributed to a fund which will insure several clever stunts being presented at various times during the afternoon and extra bleachers are being provided. Stores and offices in Brea will be closed for two hours from 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock while merchants and professional men and their assistants watch the scrap between the contending varsity teams.

Several of the stunts which are being provided are being kept secret but among those announced will be the appearance of an airplane which will drop the starting ball, the release of carrier pigeons at the half, the release of 150 toy balloons and the use of much serpentine throughout the assemblage.

U. S. C. NOT TO CONSIDER GAME IN ROSE BOWL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—The University of Southern California Trojans today were definitely eliminated from the list of possible contenders in the coming New Year's day game at Pasadena, following the announcement of Warren Bovard, university comptroller, that no post-season games would be considered by the Trojans, unless scheduled before the beginning of the regular season.

It is understood that the Pasadena Tournament of Roses committee, had approached University of Southern California officials with bids to play in the New Year contest.

Comptroller Bovard's announcement is taken as a final answer to all bids.

BREA-OLINDANS AND FULLERTON IN LEAGUE MIX

By GRIDDER

Dawns tomorrow the day for which Stewart S. ("Shorty") Smith has lived for many months.

Brea-Olinda high school's football squad, a work created by Smith, opposes the 1928 edition of Fullerton's "Big Red Team," of which most of the earlier editions were issued under the supervision of the same Mr. Smith.

The meeting at Brea of these elevens, natural geographical rivals and then some in view of circumstances surrounding the transfer of Smith's scholastic affiliations this term, easily dominates Friday's round in the Orange league's championship race.

Here's Rest of Schedule

Other conference contests follow: Huntington Beach vs. Orange at Huntington Beach; Tustin vs. Excelsior at Tustin; Garden Grove vs. Downey at Garden Grove. Anaheim draws the week's bye.

"Shorty" Smith was Fullerton's head coach for many years. He made the little Orange county city a power in the prep football world and eminently respected also in baseball. He had his team of teams last fall but while flushed with success and on the threshold of even greater results an interloper appeared on the scene to disrupt his plans and cause disharmony and finally open dissension within the ranks.

"Shorty" Smith

Nothing can be gained now by going into the case which is too fresh in the memory of Orange county sportsmen to be forgotten. It is no state secret, however, that Smith, with a heavy heart and bitter feelings, resigned his position before he was asked to do so. There were murmurings that Fullerton officialdom did not like it because "Shorty" could not "control the situation."

Victory Will Appease

Smith might have obtained some satisfaction from the fate which

FULLERTON HAS ANOTHER GREAT GRIDIRON TEAM

FULLERTON, Oct. 25.—With an enviable record already established, Coach E. Y. Johnson's Fullerton union high school football team this week is being drilled for the Brea-Olinda encounter which will take place Friday afternoon at Brea. Coach "Shorty" Smith, former Fullerton coach and present Brea-Olinda leader, will make a determined effort to upset the dope and defeat his old "Big Red Team."

Although expectations were not high for a successful team at Fullerton this year. Coach Johnson has built up one of the greatest and most powerful teams ever developed on a Fullerton gridiron. To date Fullerton has run up a score of 104 points to the opponents' 24.

Backfield stars are in abundance. Willard Hershberger and Kermit Woods, halfbacks from last year's championship team as a nucleus in the backfield, several more stars have been uncovered. Kisner at quarter, from last year's championship "B" team; John McElheny, a new man, and Orville Burns, from last year's reserves, Coach Johnson has an abundance of ball carriers. Each one is an exceptional player, making up the best backfield combination that has been seen here in years.

Coach Johnosn is jubilant over the appearance of a 180-pound fullback in the person of Bill Tigue, a transfer from an eastern high school. In practice, Tigue has started out "with a bang," outshining many of the regulars. He is just the man Coach Johnson has been looking for to back up the line defensively, and he is a real line plunger. He is also proving himself a capable passer and punter.

On the line, Coach Johnson has Stull and Williams at ends, Captain Thompson and Upshaw, both of last year's team, at tackles; Basten and Del Giorgio at guards, and big Pierotti, 190-pounder, at center.

Oliver May Use Wurster At End

may be the man to fill the vacancy.

Cooke worked at half and full in inter-squad scrimmage yesterday and was little short of a riot, running with the ball beautifully and blocking like a college man. There is no doubt but that the brilliant redhead adds a punch to the Saint backfield which is composed almost entirely of inexperienced sophomores or juniors who are particularly weak at running interference.

Lloyd Nusum, halfback, is probably lost to the team for two weks with a badly wrenched knee and Harold Pangle, another back, has a sore leg muscle which may keep him out of the tussle at South Pasadena, Saturday.

DELANEY VS. PETRESS

FOOTBALL

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 25.—From the secret confines of the Cardinal football field the word leaped today that Coach "Pop" Warner is laying great stress on defensive tactics these days in preparation for the Stanford meeting with Southern California in Los Angeles November 3.

With Fresno State regarded as sturdy opposition but not a threat Saturday, it is the shadow of the Trojan crew that is worrying Warner.

The Cardinal coach realizes that Don Williams and Marshall Duffield will have first footing on the Coliseum turf and that the Cards will need a sterling defense to stop Troy's power plays.

As a result the luckless Cardinal third squad nightly runs plays from U. S. C. formations while the first and second squads take defensive training.

BERKELEY, Oct. 24.—Apparently unwavering in his decision to let second string men bear the brunt of battle against the Olympic club Saturday, Coach "Nibs" Price coached his regular University of California eleven on new plays at yesterday's practice.

Clint Evan's second varsity found tougher going in scrimmage against the third team. It now appears that Joel Coffield and Clarence Garrity, sophomores, with "Red" Gill veteran player will do a bulk of the ball carrying Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Coach Bill Spaulding and 25 samples of his Bruins today are enroute to Moscow, Idaho, where the U. C. L. A., football team will meet Charlie Erb's Idaho Vandals Saturday. The Bruins left here last night and will stop over at Seattle Friday for a final practice session.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Southern California was to drill again today against the reverses and spin plays employed by "Pop" Warner's Stanford eleven. The Trojans are making no plans for the Saturday meeting with Occidental and at practice sessions are pointed to the Stanford meeting November 3.

CLAREMONT, Calif., Oct. 25.—Hard scrimmages face the Pomona college grid eleven today in preparation for their tussle with the California Institute of Technology here Saturday. The game is looked on as one of the decisive tilts of the present season in the Southern conference.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Army has taken its last heavy workout in preparation for the Yale game. Following a light practice session today, the squad will leave for New Haven tomorrow morning.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 25.—If practice makes perfect, the Dartmouth team that faces Harvard Saturday should be as adept at forward passing as were the Green's great teams of other years. With Al Marsters doing the heaving, the squad has practiced the aerial game all week by daylight and under the glare of flood lights at dusk.

ATLANTA, Oct. 25.—A light workout was the menu for Georgia Tech today before leaving tonight for Chapel Hill, the Tarheel stronghold. Coach Alexander believes defensive strength will be a big factor in the tilt.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 25.—Two Alabama backs, Davis Brasfield and "Pug" Deal, stood suspended today for breaking training. Alabama plays Sewanee Saturday.

Scout Charley Barrett of the St. Louis Cards [illegible] that "Wild Bill" Hallahan, [illegible] southpaw who starred in the Texas league this year, will be a sensation with the Cards in 1929.

SPARTANS LOSE 13-12 CONTEST TO COLONISTS

Julia C. Lathrop junior high school's football team lost a close contest yesterday afternoon to the Anaheim high school Class B team by a 13 to 12 count. The inability to add that extra point cost the local team a victory over what looks to be the strongest "B" eleven in Southern California as they already have vanquished Long Beach, Santa Ana and topped it all off by a 41 to 0 win over their Fullerton rivals.

Yesterday's was a hard game for the Spartans to lose as they added that extra point on their second touchdown to tie the score and then a linesman was called offside and the locals had to be content with that defeat by a one-point margin.

The Lathrop offense is becoming more powerful every day and the whole Spartan team played a much better brand of football than it did a week ago against Fullerton. Coach Ferris Scott is beginning to think that his team has the possibilities of developing greater scoring power than did his powerful team of last year—at present they are all a little green and inexperienced but they are learning fast and several on the squad are eight graders, so that the whole team will be lost by graduation this season as they were last.

"Plug" Richards, Spartan fullback, played a great game yesterday both on offense and defense. His line plunges nearly always ended up in the opponent's backfield and if it hadn't been for several penalties at very critical moments, his power might have been used to still greater advantage. The line-up:

Julia Lathrop (12)		(13) Anaheim

eventually befell the uninvited guest who came along just in time to share the glory of the championship Fullerton team and bring about the unpleasant situation which caused Smith to leave. But "Shorty" was too good a sportsman for that. He will get his satisfaction tomorrow—if Brea-Olinda can win from Fullerton, now coached, and apparently well coached, by Ernest Y. Johnson, mentor last season of the Huntington Park Class B outfit.

Fullerton, winner of three straight victories, all with ridiculous ease, is a topheavy favorite to upset the Brea-Olindans but you seldom can tell in football and you NEVER can tell about a "Shorty" Smith team.

Brea-Olinda will fight. Gridder can tell you that. Already we can hear Smith giving the Oilers their "fight talk" before that game. He will tell 'em that he wished he could play for them. He'll tell his boys he doesn't give a rap if they don't win another game in 10 years—if they whip Fullerton. And when he gets through his boys, or most of them will be in tears but they'll be snarling, fighting fools. Don't think they won't.

The Fullerton-Brea encounter overshadows the day's program but there will be other important games on the schedule and one in particular which will play an important part in the unraveling of the league's titular puzzle. Harry Sheue's Huntington Beach Spudders, the team to beat for the championship, opposes Stewart White's Orangemen at Huntington Beach. Both are undefeated. The Spudders should win although Orange, benefited by two weeks of rest, may be hard to handle.

Coach Bill Cole's Tustin aggregation makes its first conference start on its own field against Excelsior, which looked good against both Fullerton and Anaheim, and the Farmers will do well if they keep the score within reason. Tustin is too light and inexperienced to do much this year.

Garden Grove, with a pair of real tackles and a good set of backs, ought to beat Downey. Coach John Mitchell's Chilipeppers have shown improvement with every start and are likely to disturb Orange and Huntington Beach, whom they play on successive Fridays later in the season.

a batter. And that Orsatti should have replaced Douthit.

NEVER CAN TELL

It is easy to realize now that McKechnie should have started Mitchell in one game, but if the ancient southpaw had been started and had been treated as cruelly as the other pitchers were the Cardinal manager would have been ridden into St. Louis on a log.

Everyone in the country expected McKechnie to make a hero out of Old Alex and wanted him as a hero. McKechnie gave him his chance, but he could not hypnotize the Yankee batters.

WHO DID IT?

In connection with the mention of Jimmy Wilson, who went into the series rated as a star, there was considerable gossip around St. Louis as to what caused the substitution of Smith for Wilson.

It was suggested that the "office" ordered McKechnie to bench him and to take Douthit out and put Orsatti in.

Sam Breeden, however, speaking as one of the "office," said he didn't know Smith was to catch until he saw him out there.

Ayala, the Anaheim welterweight who made a sensational showing against Zenaydo Chavez last week, and Ace Marks, the celever colored boy from Long Beach.

Reversing a defeat he suffered about a year ago, Richie Thomas, Frazier's stablemate from Hawthorne, outpointed Jack Gilbert decisively in everyone of three rounds. Thomas had Gilbert on the floor for no count in the third and beat his former conqueror to the punch regularly.

Abie Miller, flashy Los Angeles newsie, substituted for Frank O'Compo and gave Dixie Bosh a three round boxing lesson although he was outweighed some 15 pounds.

George Selby and Jule Schultz were even after the third and they read an extra chapter with Schultz getting the verdict.

Charlie Angelo stopped Harry Fognol in the third round of an awkward preliminary. George Morales scored a technical knockout over Eddie Lloyd, Santa Ana, in the third, Lloyd being out on his feet. Young Harrison absorbed plenty of punishment before the curtain-raiser was stopped and the decision given to Clarence Hicks, Santa Ana, in the third.

SANTA ANA 'B' TEAM TO PLAY TIGERS FRIDAY

Going into the game with everything to win and nothing to lose, Coach Clyde Patton's Santa Ana high school Class B football squad will receive the South Pasadena yearlings tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. on Poly field.

Santa Ana has lost its two league starts so far, Long Beach trampling the Saints, 33 to 0, on a wet field, and Whittier tripping the locals, 18 to 0 last Friday.

There is quite a muddled situation as far as comparative scores are concerned. South Pasadena beat Whittier decisively and Pasadena also beat the Poets, 30 to 0. Then South Pasadena came along and beat Pasadena, 6 to 0. Whittier vanquished the Polyites 18 to 0, so the outlook is exceedingly gloomy. Last year, the Tigers "Bees" stung the locals, 16 to 0.

Coach Patton, however, will be able to send his strongest lineup on the field tomorrow. Several boys have been ousted from their jobs but this may be only temporary. Hideo Higashi is showing a world of skill at quarter and has almost cinched the position. Bert Winslow is also doing well at fullback. The two halfback jobs will fall to "Woody" Barnett and Bob Blair.

The line is intact with the exception of the guard holes and center. Earl Kent and Garth Olsen have been the candidates in the past, but Bruce Harding and Willard Conwell have shown such improvement that they are to get the starting nod Friday. Don Casey will play center instead of Roy Harvey.

The starting lineup will be: Kneeland, le; McChasney, lt; Harding, lg; Casey, c; Conwell, rg; Jamison, rt; K. Higashi, re; H. Higashi, q; Blair, rh; Barnett, lh; and Winslow, f.

Give 'em the Air

or they'll give you the air

If tires could whistle when they need more air, right now it would sound like 11 o'clock on an Armistice Day celebration.

Perhaps half the tires on the streets—possibly including some of yours—are gasping for air. Begging for their breath of life!

What do they get? A kick in the sidewall—or a look to see if they're bulging. "Ha, ha," laugh the little devils that punish soft tires. "Motorists don't know that even as little as 3 pounds under-inflation enables us to raise—er, havoc. Or that too much air is also destrictive."

What happens if you don't keep your tires correctly inflated? If your tires could only warn you! But they do tell you—with sidewall breaks or cracks that pinch tubes and cause slow leaks or blowouts.

They tell you with tread separation, or a separation of the inner plies which usually results in a blowout.

They tell you with spotty or excessive tread wear, rim cuts, body breaks, tread cuts.

They tell you by wearing out faster.

The Rubber Association of America. says that incorrect inflation destroys more tires than any other one factor.

Yet, what is freer than air? We will put it into your tires free. All you need do is to stop here regularly.

A Typical Test
Test cars, driven on tires that carried 6 pounds less air than the recommended pressure, secured 25% less mileage than when the tires were kept properly inflated. Over-inflation also reduced mileage.

Goodyears, because of their rubber-insulated flexible SUPER-TWIST cord body can stand more abuse than any other tires we know—yet it isn't fair to expect even a Goodyear to deliver all its greater mileage without the proper amount of air inside.

Father Sentenced For Keeping His Child From School

ANAHEIM, Oct. 25.—Because his 14-year-old daughter was at the head of her classes in school, C. Ter Maaten considered this a sufficient reason for keeping the young girl at home.

Ter Maaten, who lives four miles west of Anaheim, was given a five-day suspended jail sentence in Judge Charles Kuchel's court when he appeared to answer a charge preferred by W. C. Roberts, county attendance officer, for violating the state law which requires parents to send children under 16 years of age to school.

NEWPORT CIVIC BODY URGED TO SPONSOR MOVE ABOLISHING BUILDING AND PLUMBING FEES

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 25.—A suggestion that the city of Newport Beach break away from tradition and abolish the building, plumbing fees and other minor fees in connection with buildings was made here yesterday at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce. The matter was brought to the attention of the directors by K. I. Fulton.

Fulton declared in a letter to the chamber officials that the abolishment of the fees would tend to encourage building in the city. He declared that the fees charged for plumbing and electrical inspections and for building inspections pervent many person from improving their property. It was his contention that the increase in the assessed valuation resulting from increased building would offset the small revenue received by the city from the faas. Fulton would continue the present city building laws and would keep a city building inspector but would eliminate the fees. W. L. Jordan, L. L. Isbell and E. A. Moore were named on a committee to investigate the matter.

Isbell, E. B. Whitson and Moore were named on a committee to look over sites for a baseball field and to investigate the cost of lighting a field, following a lengthy discussion on baseball by the directors of the chamber. It was decided that the establishment of a baseball diamond would do much to tie the various sections of the town together and that the matter would properly come under the head of civic service. The committee will work with othe recommittees appointed by other organizations and will report at the next meeting of the directors.

Directors of the chamber failed to take action on the daylight saving plan submitted to them some time ago by the San Francisco and Los Angeles Chambers of Commerce. G. C. Macleod, secretary of the chamber, reported that answers received from numerous persons here showed that those in favor of the proposition and those opposed to it were about even in the harbor district.

Efforts will be made by the local chamber of commerce to bring a large group of English newspaper owners who are visiting the United States to Newport Beach this month.

A recommendation was made by the chamber of commerce officials that a donation of $300 be made to the advertising fund of the Orange County Coast association. The committee on week end celebrations, appointed some time ago, reported that no action had been taken toward other entertainments than the Navy day program, which is to be staged here Sunday, as the committee is awaiting the result of that affair before making further plans.

Directors approved two recommendations of the advertising committee, one for a half page advertisement in the mid-winter number of a Long Beach paper and another for a full page advertisement in the Canadian number of the Southern California Tourist magazine.

He used to get up three or four times a night

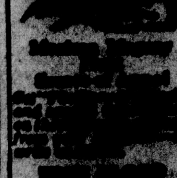
"I had to get up three or four times a night," writes an Agnel user. "That is, before I began taking Agnel. But now I can go all night without getting up." The necessity to get up at night is a very frequent complaint, as many people benefited by Agnel testify in their letters. Another sufferer writes: "After I started to take Agnel I began to sleep better. Now I sleep all night. I am feeling wonderful as a consequence."



What is Agnel? A great natural health food. The sap or milk of the Mexican Maguey plant concentrated by removing excess water. Nothing added. [illegible]

High School Scholarship Record Shows Improvement

PROGRAM FOR FIRST DAY AT S. S. MEET TOLD

Having completed the formal program for the entertainment of countless Sunday school workers from all sections of Southern California expected to assemble in Santa Ana from October 31 to November 2, inclusive, the Santa Ana committee has attractive program booklets in readiness for distribution when the delegates and workers begin to arrive.

The Southern California Sunday School Council of Religious Education is the name under which the organization flourishes and the thirty-ninth annual convention of its members is to be held in the Santa Ana First Methodist Episcopal church, of which the Rev. George A. Warmer is pastor. Other churches of the city are co-operating with enthusiasm in making the sessions interesting and their members are planning a lavish hospitality for the visitors.

"Thy will be done" has been selected as the prevailing theme of the conference and will be stressed in program and activities throughout the three days. Wednesday morning's opening session, at 11:15, will be presided over by W. R. Litzenberg, president of the board of trustees of the council, and the address of welcome will be extended by H. G. Nelson, principal of Julia Lathrop junior high school and chairman of the Santa Ana committee on arrangements.

Mrs. Mabee Song Director

This session will also introduce Mrs. Grace Mabee, who will conduct the song service, and the Rev. Milo Atkinson, devotional leader. In the afternoon, the adult division will meet in the United Presbyterian church, with the Rev. E. L. Gregory presiding. The address at 2 o'clock will be on "Principles and Needs of Adult Religious Education," by Dr. W. C. Pearce, general secretary of the council. Appointments and discussions will share interest with two other speakers, Dr. C. F. Cheverton, of the religious education department of California Christian college, whose theme will be "Organization and Activity of Adult Division and Classes," and Mrs. Mabel Roberts, children's division specialist of the Friends' church, who will talk on "The Relation of the Adult Division to the Children's Division."

At the same time the children's division will be in session in the First Baptist church, with Miss Jean Gertrude Hutton, of the religious education department, with Miss Jean Gertrude Hutton, of the religious education department, University of Southern California, in the chair. "Music for Children" will be discussed by Mrs. Grace Mabee and "Fine Arts" by Mrs. Charles Kinnear and others. At 4 o'clock a group of parties will be directed by Mrs. Fern Michelson, in charge of the beginners; Miss Minnie Morse, working with the primary, and Mabel Hawthorne and Mrs. L. C. Brockway, with the junior departments.

In the meantime "Church School Administration" will be discussed by a group of workers meeting in the lecture room of the United

H. S. ENGINEERS WILL SEEK NEW GLIDER RECORD

Breaking the world's record for sustained gliding is a high mark to shoot at, but the Engineering club members in the Santa Ana high school are planning on attempting that very thing in the near future.

For several weeks the boys have been discussing the question of gliding. A pair of glider wings have been located and can be purchased cheap. With several weeks' work, a suitable plane can be constructed. Many sites are available, especially near Newport, for gliding purposes. If the Engineers approach or break the record, much publicity will be focused on Santa Ana and the high school.

Final plans were discussed Wednesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the club. Along with the glider, three tobaggan sleds are to be built in readiness for the club's yearly pilgrimage into the snow at Lake Arrowhead during Christmas vacation. Charles Greenleaf and Aubrey Dunbar were appointed to head the work.

Initiation of new members will take place Friday night in Orange County park. The boys will leave after school and play football and other games until nightfall. Mrs. Charles Tibbetts, "mother" of the club, will serve dinner.

MUSIC CLUB OF S. A. HIGH GIVES FIRST PROGRAM

With every division of the high school music department represented the Wednesday Morning club of the school held its first meeting yesterday in the auditorium.

The club is composed of the entire music enrollment and meets once each month to present examples of work done in each class. The orchestra, band, boys' and girls' glee clubs, quartets and soloists are on the programs. Miss Myrtle Martin, head of the high school and junior college music departments, had charge of the morning's music.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of S. J. Mustol, supervisor of instrumental music in the city schools, opened the program with the playing of "The Caliph of Bagdad" overture. "A Spanish Dance," played as a violin duet, by Peggy Warburton and Emmaline Richards, and a violin solo, by Paul Wyne, completed the participation by the orchestra.

The Boys' Glee club, led by Miss Mary Batton, sang a Negro spiritual, "We All Got Shoes." Preston Bradford, a member of the organization and a brother of Robert Bradford, prominent vocalist, entertained the students with "The Old Refrain," being accompanied by Miss Batton.

William Warren, Lawrence Patterson, Preston Bradford and Aubrey Dunbar, comprising the Boys' Glee club quartet, sang "The Fisher Boys." Miss Batton was at the piano.

Burmah Adams and Duncan Harnois played "Amaryllis" as a piano duet. The Girls' Glee club singing "Love's Dream," showed the result of hard work and careful training.

The last numbers on the well rounded out program were two vocal duets, by Ruth LaLonde and Florence Sturbaum. The first, "Come to the Fair," was a charming and catchy song, while an Indian Lullaby was in pleasing contrast.

S. A. MAYOR GUEST OF HOOVER GROUP

Newcom, Neal Beisel, treasurer; Dr. MacVicker Smith, Orlyn Robertson, district trustee; Fred Newcomb, Maurice Enderle, Rolla Hays, J. S. Smart, John Knox, H. G. Nelson, A. N. Zerman, W. D. Baker and J. E. Paul, directors, three to be elected to fill expired terms of A. J. Crookshank, C. E. Walker and H. G. Nelson.

The address was by Lt. Col. LeRoy F. Smith, infantry reserve, and director of the lecture bureau of the Better American federation.

Criticises Government

Under the subject of "Our Peace Establishment," the speaker severely criticized this government for its "unpreparedness" and made his point clear by recounting conditions under which soldiers of this country have fought since the first war. He asserted that the United States had been lucky in that it never had been forced to fight an enemy of its size and force.

Referring to this country's participation in the World war, Col. Smith said:

"We did mobilize more than 4,000,000 men; we trained them, more or less; we trained many of them in summer underwear and cotton uniforms in a bitter-cold winter; we trained them with stovepipe and wooden cannons, and with old battle-scarred, useless Enfield rifles borrowed from Canada; we equipped them with French and English artillery, French and English airplanes, French and English machine guns. Although our allies were being crushed to the wall, they were forced to furnish the Americans with one-half of all their supplies—and it was a whole year after we declared war before we put any, save one negligible handful, into battle."

Declaring that hundreds of brave men had sacrificed their lives in major wars of this nation because of lack of training and equipment, he urged that young men interest themselves in preparation by identifying themselves with the Reserve Officers Training corps and that military training be extended to high schools.

Commenting on the cost of maintenance of the national defense forces, Col. Smith said the per capita cost for the last fiscal year was $5.50.

"Basing our conviction upon the sad, bloody and costly experience of a century and a half of gross carelessness, we have concluded that the nation which relies upon her yeomanry to defend her in time of danger is in safety bound and in simple duty bound to afford that yeomanry some sort of opportunity for preparation for that service," the speaker concluded.

George Dunton officiated as program chairman, and introduced Bert Howard, of the Optimistic club of Hollywood, in a group of piano selections.

SMITH'S STAND ON BOOZE WINS HIM 30 VOTES

Thirty of the 50 students who voted for Al Smith in a recent straw ballot conducted by the Don, Santa Ana Junior college paper, are against the present prohibition law and the democratic candidate's position on this subject was responsible for most of the votes he secured.

This fact was revealed in the analysis of the vote made by the Don in its last issue.

Herbert Hoover won the election easily with 171 votes to 59 for Smith. The paper said: "The general opinion of those who supported Hoover was that he was better suited for the job and that he more truly represented the American people. Reference to definite policies or platform planks were seldom made by those in support of Hoover.

"On the other hand the students in favor of Al Smith usually had a definite reason for their views. The most popular reason was Smith's stand on the prohibition question, nearly 30 students out of the total of 59 for Smith indicated that they were against this present law.

"One of the most surprising things of the whole vote was that little was said concerning the religious question. Only six students made any reference to this on either side."

PERCENTAGE OF FAILURES LAST TERM SMALLER

The scholarship report of the Santa Ana high school for 1927-28, just released by W. M. Clayton, vice principal shows that the failures as a whole in studies ended June 15, 1928, were considerable less than the previous semester.

A total of 3993 students were enrolled in English, history, foreign languages, science, mathematics, commerce, mechanical arts, home economics, art and music and of this number 368, or 10.5 per cent, failed, while 12.6 per cent had failed in the former term.

Foreign languages headed the list of failures in the school, Clayton declared. Of the 456 taking languages, 15.7 per cent failed, compared with 16.5 per cent in the semester before.

The English department showed the greatest improvement, with 7.4 per cent failing, according to the report, while 17.7 per cent failed in the former term.

Only two out of the 207 enrolled failed in home economics.

"This scholarship record is very good compared with records of other high schools in the country, but we hope to even better the record during the present semester," Clayton said.

The Polyites are graded 1, 2 and 3. Most 1's were made in history and fewest in the mechanical department. Sixty-five out of the 889 were passed on condition in the English department.

NEW WAY TO AMUSE THE BABY!

Yesterday I said I would describe my "copyrighted" method for amusing a baby, guaranteed to work and to be an aid to intelligence, temper and tears.

My namesake, age 18 months, visited me recently. One morning her mother was under the weather and I volunteered to take care of young Ann.

I had some scrap books to paste up so Baby Ann was put in her chair to watch me. Out went the grasping little hands with a baby "gimme." I gave her some scraps of paper which were soon torn up, and out went the hands again.

I flicked one small fore finger with the paste brush and gave her more paper—then the fun began.

Back and forward from thumb to finger went the paper until it fell away in shreds.

I had a brilliant idea—why not a feather? And a feather she got and kept for a long hour.

Mother appeared at the end of that time to rescue her small Ann—the weariest, sleepiest baby ever!

TODAY'S RECIPE

Deviled Crab

Meat of 1 crab or
1 can of crab
1½ tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash of cayenne pepper
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 dozen green olives
4 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

When crabs are in season choose a large one, carefully remove from the upper shell (red one) leaving it unbroken—the crab is baked in the shell and served from it. Pick out and flake the meat.

Melt the butter and blend with it the flour, mustard and all seasonings except the lemon juice. Add the milk and cook until smooth and thick. Put in the crab meat and stand over hot water until ready for the oven.

The shell has been well scrubbed out and the crab mixture is nearly ready to send to the table: allow 15 minutes for final baking, but first:

Fold into the creamed crab the parsley, lemon juice and the olives, flesh chopped fine. Pour the crab into the shell and cover with buttered crumbs. Put in a hot oven to brown nicely. It can be prepared in the same manner, using a shallow baking dish.

If fish chowders are favorites with The Family, why not a crab chowder? Make just as you would a clam chowder . . . another delightful way to prepare is to cook with creamed spaghetti or macaroni.

There are four medium sized portions in this recipe; the calory total is a bare 1000, divided half and half between the proteins and energy foods . . . these are the butter, crumbs, olives and part of the milk.

Do you dread to bake rich fruit cakes because they invariably cook too dry or burn? Why not try steaming such cake? It can be done—very successfully.

A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to this department brings you this and other recipes from the current leaflet, HOLIDAY FRUIT CAKES.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Have you just received a note from the teacher that William is not getting along in school? That he won't pay attention and can't get his work, that he sits and looks out of the window and won't study? He has been late twice in a week. He plays in school and disturbs the children around him.

You are thinking up things to say to William. Perhaps you have even gone into the closet under the stairs to see if that old switch is still hanging on its hook, and wondering if a little dressing down now wouldn't do William some good.

The two switchings William got in the spring mellowed him a bit for the time being, but as nearly as you can remember three days after his last trouning William played hooky and went swimming

William! William! William! The apple of your eye, but a long sharp thorn in your side! You—to have an incorrigible boy like that! How could it have happened? It was all right for other people to have bad boys but not for you.

You would have thought of playing truant about as much as you would have thought of murdering your pet dog. Where could William have gotten it?

The chances are about 99 to 1 that your William is as fine a fellow as ever lived.

His tardiness and his bad marks, his laziness about his lessons, even his one day of truancy, have been for countless ages, characteristics of boys who turned out to be anything from presidents down.

William is growing, and he does not like books and lessons—there isn't any doubt of that, but books and lessons are not always criterions of a boy's worth. He likes to stop and play marbles, and waste his time standing before scoreboards, and sneak off to swim, or go to too many movies, but aside from these heinous crimes, your William may be pure gold.

Watch yourself, stern parent, not William. Don't beat him and nag him and scold him until he hates both you and home.

Talk to him and explain your hopes to him, and make a companion of him Above all things, have understanding and sympathy for him.

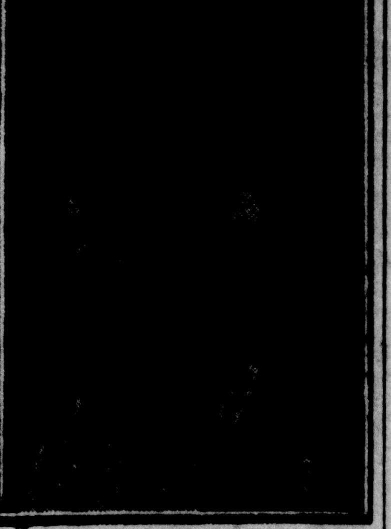
Arts Specialist States Reasons For Voting For Hoover

Women are constantly striking out on new lines, making new places for themselves in the business world.

Margery Currey, director of the American Art bureau, with headquarters in Chicago, blazes a business trail when she travels about the country creating interest in good pictures for homes and schools. While she installs exhibits, gives lectures with demonstrations on the artistic possibilities of wall coverings, hangings and pictures when they are selected to harmonize, no one in her audience can buy a picture or a print from her. She represents no one firm. The Art Bureau is an affiliation of many firms, and Miss Currey is their prophetess.



MARGERY CURREY

Her art programs are studied by thousands of women's clubs. She is a familiar figure at conventions of educational workers and women's organizations. When she is called suddenly to address a meeting, she picks up her traveling exhibit of prints and fabrics, hops the first fast train or an airplane, and is off to her next destination.

She is a great admirer of Herbert Hoover, and from one of her flying journeys she writes:

"I shall vote for Hoover for President of the United States because I feel that he will stand for:

The well-being of our country which is higher and more permanent than material prosperity alone.

Wholesome standards.

Keeping this nation in a place of world leadership, through his humanitarian viewpoint.

Representation of the interests of all sections of our country, through working familiarity with many parts of the land, rural and city.

Clearly defined righteous issues to be supported.

Emphasis on the character, honor and sturdiness of the best that is American."

"Now, off we go!" the big ale cried. His mouth was open le, all the Tinies crouched together, just a wee bit scared. The ale had saved them from the sea, t they were puzzled as could be. didn't seem they realized how cky they had fared.

"A place like this is something ew. Why, he could bite us all in wo if he'd decide to close his outh," said Clowny, with a rown. "And, if he'd take a real eep breath, I fear 'twould blow s all to death. Oh, my, I wish e all were in some funny little own."

The whale then started swimming fast. The monstrous waves went skimming past. It was a ery thrilling ride, the Tinymites greed. "The wave sprays seem ust like a shower. We're traveling miles and miles per hour," said Scouty. "I'm sure that I have never seen such speed."

On, on they went across the sea, thus far as safe as safe could be. The whale's mouth stayed wide open. He was kind to them, no doubt. Then Carpy said, "As long as this keeps up there's naught to go amiss. But, if he starts to close his mouth, I surely ill jump out."

"Oh look!" cried Scouty, "there's ship. Perhaps we soon can end his trip. The whale is heading traight that way. I wonder who's n board." The whale then spout- water high. It almost seemed touch the sky. Then, as he pouted once again, his monstrous ostrils roared.

By this time they were near the ip. The Tinies saw a long rope out through the air and land upon the whale, who made a fuss. The rope, however, caught him tight, and Clowny shouted, "We're all right. The men upon the little boat are going to rescue us."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Was it Nebuchadnezzar who built the hanging gardens for his queen? Nebby had nothing on one John Markle, multi-millionaire coal magnate widower of New York, who is building a million dollar, 45-room apartment atop a New York skyscraper. The apartment includes 18 rooms for servants, 24 bathrooms, four private elevators, 26 extension phones, and three kitchens, sunken baths, conservatories, pipe organ, wall safes, art gallery, two libraries, gymnasium, and most anything a rich old widower needs.

One of our popular beliefs is that men have and live in house only because of wives; that they themselves, if alone would much prefer the simplicity of club quarters or hotel living. It may be true. One swallow does not make a summer and one John Markle does not speak for all men. But even so, I think most any bachelor or widower with Mr. Markle's money would spend a large share of it on a luxurious house just as soon as a man with a family would, or a rich spinster or widow.

GOOD OLD CONGRESS!

Congress did something in the closing days of its last session which, while almost epochal, has receivel dittle note. This is the passing of the bill which provides for the reuniting of families separated by the operations of the immigration law of 1924.

Hereafter, alien husbands and wives of citizens, their unmarried alien children under 21, and American born widows of aliens to whom they were married before the passage of the Cable act, will be admitted as non-quota immigrants.

It is surprising that this, one of the most humane things ever done by congress, has received so little attention.

ON TIPPING

Tipping is heatedly assailed by Ethelbert Stewart, Commissioner of Labor Statistics.

"It is an utterly insane feature of the American industrial system," he says. "It is demoralizing both to the giver and the receiver. People should rise up and refuse to give tips. We are fools to stand for this nonsense. Why should I in a restaurant be asked to pay waiters, check boys and the bell-hops? Shouldn't the work of these people be included as part of the service?

He is absolutely right, of course. Any of us would prefer to pay as much extra on our bills as spend in tips, if that extra were given in increased wages to those who serve us, so that they are not dependent on tipping for a livelihood. Surely employes themselves would prefer the dignity of a decent wage for work rendered than to be dependent on the more or less grudging bounty of those they serve.

It's a custom terribly un-American.

THE FAMILY

They are still talking in this country about "community kitchens," "state care of children." Soviet Russia stopped talking these things sometime ago and actualy put them into effect. Having tried them out, it has changed its mind. The children who were in the care of the state have been farmed out to private families, community kitchens are being discouraged by the Soviet, and they are publicly admitting that the family is "the cell" of future society. Instead of feeling superior to the Soviet, however, we should give thanks that they acted as a pioneer laboratory for experiments in which society of all nations is vitally concerned.

MOONE'S EMERALD OIL

AT THE THEATERS

YOST'S BROADWAY

Excellent screen entertainment is offered in Fox Films "Road House," now showing at the Broadway theater. It is a colorful story of modern youth, directed by Richard Rosson.

"Road House" brings two players to the screen. Maria Alba, acclaimed the most beautiful girl in Spain, has personality plus, besides being very easy on the eyes. She has marked ability and promises to make screen history.

The other youngster is Warren Burke, who plays the role of the prodigal son. Burke gives an excellent performance and is a real find in juvenile ranks.

Lionel Barrymore is cast as the father of the boy and gives one of his most human and sympathetic portrayals to the screen.

The second feature film on the big double bill at the Broadway is "The Devil's Skipper."

Most of the members of the crew recruited for the ship scenes in the Tiffany-Stahl production which is suggested by the Jack London story, "Demetrious Contos" were atmosphere in all of the great sea pictures filmed within the past few years. These men have become adept in depicting the ruffians who sail the seas and need very little coaching by the director to get into the spirit of their roles.

WEST END

Alice Joyce, who plays the role of the mother in support of Richard Barthelmess in "The Noose," now showing at the West End theater, has never played extra roles nor did she start at the bottom of the ladder as so many stars have done.

Se was a famous beauty before her entry into pictures and consequently when producers saw her they negotiated for her services and gave her the leading feminine role in the first picture in which she appeared.

In "The Noose" she has a role with the dramatic possibilities of a "Madame X" and patrons of the West End theater will witness some of the finest work of her career.

"The Noose" was directed by John Francis Dillon from the screen version of Willard Mack's play, and is unquestionably Richard Barthelmess at his best.

WEST COAST WALKER

There are few pictures being made now that can evoke a large audience into a silence of tears and the very next moment make them laugh—a loud uproarious guffaw of spontaneous merriment—yet D. W. Griffith's "The Battle of the Sexes" shown at the Walker theater last night did that very thing.

The joys of the average home; its disappointments; its humor and small tragedies have been ably caught by Griffith who shows an innate sense of the romanticism lying behind America's greatest institution—the home.

It seems safe to say that no better example of comedy through pathos has been seen in years.

Jean Hersholt, as the erring father, portrays what is easily one of the finest character roles of his career. Phyllis Haver as the gold-digger, Marie, plays an unsympathetic role and is the direct cause of much of the comedy. Belle Bennett gives a sympathetic performance as the mother; Sally O'Neil is natural as an unsophisticated home-girl who is instrumental in bringing her estranged parents back to the domestic fold and Don Alvarado as Jimmy plays the role of a male gold digger. The cast includes William Bakewell and John Batten.

COTTON ON TRAILER DESTROYED BY FIRE

TULARE, Calif., Oct. 26.—(UP)—A truck trailer that became a pillar of fire as it rolled along the highway provided a novel spectacle and frightened passing motorists near here last night. The trailer was loaded with cotton belonging to the J. G. Boswell company, of Corcoran, and was enroute to Los Angeles.

In some unexplained manner the cotton caught fire and 25 bales were destroyed with a loss estimated at $2500 before the blaze could be extinguished.

Twelve bales were saved.

brushes, leaky cables, electric cigar lighters.

Defective light sockets, breaks in third rails, electric heaters, electric pads, marcelling outfits, waffle irons, percolators, mercury arc rectifiers, elevator controls, violet ray machines, electric vibrators, telephone dialers, leaky transformers, annunciators.

Easy To Stop Noises

Two recent inquiries to the Register's radio technician suffice to show how simple it is to stop these noises once located.

In the first case, which was in a Santa Ana home, the radio owner was complaining of excessive static on local and distant stations. Upon the arrival of the technician the party in question told him that it was funny that his radio was acting up all the time while his brother, who had one of the same make, could get good reception and he was only "two blocks away, too."

Well, the noise was there, but it wasn't static. The technician went out to the fuse box and found the fuses for the lighting circuit not only loose, but with dirty contacts. Upon cleaning the contacts and putting the fuses in tightly, 90 per cent of the noise was cleaned up then and there.

In the second case the technician was called to the Democratic campaign headquarters, where a standard make receiving set, loaned them by a dealer is being used in order that the speeches of their favorite candidates might be heard.

Our technician was told that the machine was no good at all because it brought in so much noise and static that it was impossible to get the programs.

Noise Wasn't Static

The noise was there all right and they could not understand the programs. But their noise was not static and when they were told so they looked kind of skeptical. However, our technician listened to the noise, which was of the steady make and break type, and then walked around the block. Upon his return he said to the man in charge, "If you will call up "so and so" and have him shut off that nice new sign of his, the trouble will be over." This was done and the trouble ended then and there.

The politician in charge said, "Well, that's all fine but how is it going to us any good? He is certaily going to use that sign. He paid $500 for it and it doesn't do him any good to shut it off." But the Register's technician got in touch with the makers of the sign and they, in turn, came to Santa Ana and put chokes and filters all over it with the result that the sign is working, the noise is no more, radio reception is improved for blocks on all sides of the sign and all at a cost of not a single cent to those interested.

Interferes Elsewhere

We would urge that when you have an article in your home that interferes with your own radio that you remember that it also interferes with your neighbor's. Write the Radio Editor, describing the device or devices in your home which create interference and make noises in your radio and he will tell you how these noises may be overcome at a slight cost to you. In so doing you will be a public benefactor and one of those actively engaged in bettering radio reception in Orange county. The co-operation of radio fans in general along these lines will improve receiving conditions locally 50 per cent in 30 days.

CARPENTER BREAKS HIS NECK IN FALL

Falling approximately 20 feet from the roof of a new building at Kilson Drive and Wakeham avenue, late yesterday, J. J. Kinder, 32, carpenter for the Santa Ana Roofing company, suffered a broken neck and is in a serious condition in the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

His arms were partially paralyzed as a result of the fracture, but this condition will pass, according to attending physicians. Kinder will have to remain in plaster casts for several weeks, it was said.

Kinder, who lives at 1212 Lacy street, was working on the roof when he slipped and fell to hte ground, it was reported.

LAGUNA BOARD FAILS TO TAKE SEWER ACTION

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 25.—Sewers came before the city council last night when N. E. West, representing the Yoch company, asked that the city grant to the Laguna Beach sanitary district a permit to extend sewers into a newly opened tract belonging to the Yoch company. Preceding the request, West traced the history of the district as it related to the tract he representedo, stating that his company had paid taxes into the sanitary district on the two-thirds of the tract lying within it and that the property was entitled to sewer conections.

City Attorney Moresby White, who has represented the sanitary district when West's request had been placed before it, doubted the advisability of granting the request because of the precedent which would be created, a precedent which might become embarrassing if the Arch Beach sanitary district made a similar request at a time when the city was already contemplating a sewer system for that portion of the city.

White considered hasty action inadvisable and his point was finally adopted by the council as the safest course to be pursued at present.

Report of the dynamiting of a bathing pool was placed before the council in a letter signed by Mrs. Agnes O. Hall, of Riverside, owner of a home here. She asked that the city take steps to require the person responsible to rebuild the pool.

An ordinance which would require the numbering of all houses and defining the system of numbering went to third reading.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Violent activity in the petroleum shares was the outstanding development in today's stock market, heavy buying carrying issues like Sinclair, Sun, Atlantic Refining and Phillips into new high territory for the year.

However, the market was forced to absorb heavy profit-taking in many sections of the list. Briggs, Studebaker, Greene-Cananea and several of the copper shares were forced down despite the establishment in some quarters of a 15⅝ cents a pound domestic price. Speculative enthusiasm was dampered by a rise in call money to 8 per cent.

Special issues continued to soar Western Union and Union Carbide both sold at new record high and sharp advances took place in Macy, Schulte, International Nickel, Radio and Chrysler. Steel was less active around its previous closing levels, but General Motors staged a sensational advance in the final hour.

Trading in Sinclair which reached large proportions, was partly due to reports that Arthur Cutten would seek representation on the board at the next meeting and belief that he and associates were buying the stock on the open market. This gave stimulus to the move in the oils started several days ago. Marland and Pan American B were other strong spots.

An outstanding piece of constructive news today was an advance to 15⅝ cents a pound in the price of copper metal for domestic shipment. This is an increase of ⅛ cent from the price yesterday and ⅛ cent higher than the price prevailing a week ago. It is expected the export price will be advanced to 16 cents.

Copper shares, however, were meeting some profit taking, particularly Greene Cananea which at one time was down 5 points. It rallied later. Other issues moved rather narrowly. Granby made a new high at 73⅜ up ⅞, but later eased to the previous close.

Anaconda, Magna and Calumet and Arizona each lost more than a point. American Smelting rose 1⅝ in early dealings, but later sagged to around the previous close. Andres Copper was listed today gaining ½ point over the last price on the curb yesterday.

EVENING SALUTATION

All beauty makes us sad, yet not in vain:
For who would be ungracious to refuse,
Or not to use, this sadness without pain,
Whether it flows upon us from the hues
Of sunset, from the time of stars and dews,
From the clear sky, or waters pure of stain.

THE DRIFT AND THE REASON

We are nearing the close of the campaign. A measure has been taken in the minds of nearly all the people as to what the probable results will be.

A few weeks ago there was considerable sentiment that Governor Smith might be elected, and the friends of Mr. Hoover were correspondingly alarmed. But as the time has passed, and riper judgment has been brought to bear upon the situation, there has been a constantly increasing drift to Mr. Hoover, so that today the general belief is that he will be elected by a tremendous majority of votes in the electoral college.

The betting odds, which usually show the general sentiment of the country, are increasing in favor of Hoover. The singular part of this is that this is true in the heart of the City of New York, which will unquestionably be carried for Smith by several hundred thousand majority. Wall Street is getting its opinion from the country at large. The straw votes which are being taken principally by the Literary Digest, are received from a large section of the country, representing all classes of people, and have heretofore proven very reliable.

Further than this, one can note the changing sentiment about Smith on every hand. This change is due, undoubtedly, to many factors. One of them is the ascendency of a more sober judgment that comes to people as they consider any proposition a longer time. Unquestionably, a second consideration is the fact of the style of Governor Smith's addresses. The people of the United States have rather an exalted opinion of the office of the chief executive. This is not greater, by any means, than it should be. As Governor Smith proceeds they cannot quite harmonize the character and style of his utterances with the dignity and importance of the office.

Another factor which is making for the support of Mr. Hoover is the general prosperity of the United States which has been so great that it has been a marvel to the people of the Old World. Since the Civil war we have had only two Democratic Presidents, and one of them carried out more the ideals of the Republican party than he did the Democratic party. He was consequently hated by some of the Democratic leaders more than any Republican President ever was.

There is rightly or wrongly associated in the minds of the people, the idea that the ones who are responsible for the carrying on of business in a big way in the United States, or that to which we refer as "big business" are associated also with the Republican party. It is believed that Mr. Hoover is one of the most capable of this type of men, and that he can lead the nation on to greater success, and can meet any serious emergency with greater knowledge and wisdom than can his opponent.

We believe that some of these things are affecting the public mind to an even greater degree than the issues. There is a growing impression on the part of most thinking folks that both candidates are discussing the issues too much with the idea of the voter in mind and too little with the idea of the actual solution of the issue. Both men, in our judgment, have fallen into this way, we are sorry to say,—possibly each in his particular manner almost to an equal degree. Governor Smith, with practically no knowledge of the farm problem, desires to emphasize that he understands it and can solve it although he has clearly changed his mind on it two or three times. The worst that can be said of this is that he is "after" votes. Mr. Hoover, on the other hand, charged the Democratic party and Mr. Smith with being socialists or socialistic, for doing things and standing for things, many of which certainly 50 or 75 per cent of the voters for Mr. Hoover believe in and are fighting for. We cannot believe that Mr. Hoover is greatly alarmed over any of the dangers of socialism due to any proposition of the Democratic party.

But it was so easy to charge Mr. Smith's proposed state control of the liquor traffic as being socialistic, and some of the forces behind Governor Smith are so anti-socialistic that the cry might help to make votes. We believe Mr. Hoover must have said some of these things with a little element of humor.

Summing it up pro and con, the people of this country will undoubtedly elect Mr. Hoover, and when they have done so they will have elected in many respects, the ablest man for the accomplishment of the particular work that seems to be before the United States to do, who has sat in the presidential chair since the time of Abraham Lincoln.

One of these days some young woman is going to jump into the English Channel and fail to swim across. That will be news.

LOOSE TALK

A New Jersey jury has decided that Mrs. Helen Baldwin, from the town of Boonton, cannot collect any libel damages from the Rev. William H. Bridge.

Last winter Mrs. Baldwin wrote a letter to a local newspaper, fulminating against the "red" menace and declaring that John Haynes Holmes, Oswald Garrison Villard, Jane Addams and others were "playing the Communist game." The Rev. Bridge didn't like this and wrote a letter of protest against what he said were "lying imputations." Mrs. Baldwin promptly sued for $5000 libel damages.

At the trial it developed that the lady didn't quite know what Communism is. Miss Addams and Messrs. Holmes and Villard are radicals, or liberals; but they have never preached Communism. They had preached pacifism; but the court ruled that "pacifism is not to be associated with Communism." So the lady lost.

This ought to help put an end to loose talking and thinking of that kind. Too many people cry "Communist" at those who differ with them.

In consequence of this the lady could not prove she was right for telling the truth when she classed these men as Communists and so she lost her case. There is a great deal of loose talk which is the result of loose thinking. When people are angry at each other they call the other party a name. It used to be the "Bolshevik," but now it is frequently "Communist." This will help straighten things up.

GOVERNMENT BORROWING AT 4¾ PERCENT

The last Government financing has had to be done at four and three-fourths per cent, a half per cent higher than the Liberty Loans were floated for during the war, and one and one-half per cent higher than recent long time loans.

Naturally short time loans have to be floated at a higher rate of interest, but this does not explain the high rate for this last short time loan. Only a few months ago the government was financing these short time loans at three and three-fourths per cent. This is no longer possible. Credit conditions have tightened up. Money is not so plentiful.

The easy credit conditions were the result of the extension of the rediscount privileges of the Federal Reserve Banks. By rediscounting securities, the country was flooded with cheap money. This accounts for the large brokers' loans, and the resulting rise in stock market securities. Now that this rediscounting privilege, which has been encouraged all along by Secretary Mellon, has been limited, the Treasury department finds itself borrowing in the stringent money market.

The large interest paid on this last loan is no indication whatever that the credit of the government has fallen. On long term loans, which this latest financing is made to take up, the government could still float a very large amount at much lower rates. In this last financing, it would seem that the government has become the victim of its own policy of cheapening money until the reins had to be drawn in.

A victim of amnesia in New York City suddenly recovered her faculties and remembered her name was Gheranghelli. She must have been a sick person, indeed, to forget a name like that.

A NEW HUNTING GROUNDS

The American sportsman who will travel long distances in the fall to get a shot at a moose or a deer is beginning to give earnest consideration to Alaska as a hunting ground, according to a report from the Interior Department.

Hunters are going to Alaska in ever-increasing numbers, the report says, and the town of Anchorage is becoming a great headquarters for hunting parties, with guides, outfitting stores and so on in profusion. The back country offers an abundance of caribou, moose, mountain sheep and black and brown bear.

Alaska, the department remarks, is second only to Africa as a place for the shooting of big game—and American sportsmen are discovering the fact and are treking through that country every year in droves.

Wild life is becoming scarce in America. Hunters are being driven to more remote places for their game. At no distant day Alaska also will be dispoiled of it. The vast number of men who have leisure, the improved roads, the methods of travel, the high-powered rifles, all tend to reduce the game preserves with increasing ratio.

Fine Spirit Shown

Riverside Daily Press

There were two features of the California-U. S. C. game on Saturday that deserve special emphasis. There was not a single penalty for roughness; and in fact there were very few penalties for even technical infractions of the rules, like offside play or getting into motion in the backfield too quickly. It was one of the cleanest games the writer has ever witnessed and he has been counted as a pretty good football fan ever since the present American game of football was started, some 45 years ago. In the second place the spirit of friendliness between the two great universities was most commendable. The California band played the U. S. C. official song and the U. S. C. band responded with "Hail, Blue and Gold." The stunts put on by the two rooting sections were marked by a fine spirit of courtesy; and the good plays on both sides were cheered with impartial enthusiasm.

California now has four great universities—University of California, University of California in Los Angeles, Stanford and University of Southern California. This is a condition that exists in no other state in the Union; and the result is not one "big game" in various lines of sport but several big games of nearly equal interest and attendance. University of California in Los Angeles already ranks on a par with the other three universities in basketball and baseball; and in another season or two is likely to be in the same class in football.

Harmonious relations among these four great institutions of higher education make for state unity and friendly cooperation in advancing the educational and all other interests of our great state.

The spirit shown by the students of California and U. S. C. on Saturday is worthy of the highest praise; and it is to be hoped that this spirit will be emulated by the alumni and by all other enthusiasts for clean sports and high standards in education and conduct.

Hanging Is Barbarous; Abolish It

Pasadena Star-News

Whether capital punishment is justifiable is a debatable question. There is strong argument on both sides. But so long as capital punishment is prescribed under the laws of California for capital crimes, the horrible method of hanging should be abolished. Few states use this method any longer. Electrocution is the mode in many states. This brings vitally instantaneous death, without the dreadful concomitants of hanging.

The execution of William Edward Hickman was a horrible example of the sickening aspects of hanging. Many will argue that the atrociousness of his crime deserved all the torture that could be heaped upon him. But the law does not turn itself into torturing. The theory of the law in punishing for crime is not vengeance. Murderers are executed for the protection of society—not only to punish the guilty but, by the example of the punishment, to deter others from committing capital crimes.

The Hickman hanging was particularly horrible. His neck was not broken by the fall, after the noose was about his neck, he slowly strangled, with his body twitching and with every evidence of torture for fifteen minutes. The sight was so distressing that three men fainted—one of them a detective accustomed to gruesome sights. If California is to retain capital punishment, let it be made more humane and less sickening—let electrocution be substituted for hanging.

CONSOLATION

A great astronomer, I'm told,
A man of vast renown
Declares our earth is getting old
And slowly slowing down.
Though season after season, as
We dig for income taxes,
And go to movie shows and jazz
It lags upon its axis.
But to dispel disquietude
Upon this earthly shore
A stock of knowledge I've accrued
From economic lore.
There's no occasion to appal
The reader's heart with fears
Because the planet will not stall
For many billion years.
It may take on a slower pace,
But be assured of this:
Forages it will hold its place
Amid the black abyss.
And when its forces droop and die
We will not need despair
Because, dear reader, you and I
Will be some other where.
Moreover, what with radios
And gangs and greyhound races
And talking silent drama shows
And lurid murder cases
From worry we will quite be free
Nor think about disaster,
For though it slows down yearly, we Shall move around it faster!

Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE BAD MAN

A trite subject is the influence of a good man. We are often told that the gist of the gospel is the kind of influence that a good man exerts unconsciously.

My attention was called the other day to the influence of a bad man.

"I can pardon all he did to me," said the divorced wife to me, "that is I can overlook his abuse of my generosity, his stealing from me and his acknowledged infidelity.

"The worst is, what he has done to me internally. He has ruined my inner life.

"He has destroyed my faith in human nature. It takes a great effort for me not to become hard and cynical. I used to believe in folks and think there was good in everybody. I have become dubious and suspicious.

"The parables of the Prodigal Son and the Good Samaritan do not somehow convince me any more. I think if that prodigal Son were to return to me I would put him upon a year or so's probation. If I were the Good Samaritan I should want to have the man wounded by the roadside investigated.

"I used to think that everybody had some spark of goodness in them, no matter how bad he seemed, some good trait that could be appealed to, some latent virtue that the right environment might develop.

"It is a revelation to me, and a bitter one, to realise that there are some people who cannot be accounted for by heredity or environment or any of our other usual excuses, but are just plain bad.

"All the kindness you show them, all your forbearance and forgiveness, simply hardens them. All your restrictions simply make them slyer.

"It is as though some one had tarred all my bright ideals. My finer beliefs have been smudged. I am polluted internally. "Just to know that such a man exists destroys all the young and verdant faith I once had.

"I do not want to be hard. I do not want to be cruel. But some how I am leaning toward these things.

"I even used to be thoroughly opposed to capital punishment, but now I believe there are certain persons who should be exterminated.

"I have been immune to all the arguments of the cynics and the pessimists. I simply did not believe them. Now my optimism has been ruined.

"[illegible] a bad man can do more harm just by living than any advocate of Satan could accomplish by argument.

"I know that the influence of a good man is tremendous. But the influence of a bad man can hardly be estimated."

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Sattiday morning I had a dime, and I was on my way around to Mommy Simminses store with it and I axsidently dropped it on account of carrying it in my hand for safe keeping, and I was hunting for it anxious and Ed Wernick and Lew Davis came up and stood there watching me, Lew Davis saying, If you wunt any help just leave us know, we're experts wen it comes to finding things.

Them alweys going in all sorts of diffrent kinds of bisniss, and Ed sed, Sure, we never fail, thats our motto, ony of corse youll haff to pay us wen we find it, we aint in bizniss for our helth, are we, Lew? he sed, and Lew Davis sed, I should say we aint, we usually charge half of watever we find, but seeing your a frend we'll ony charge you 4 cents, so wenever you wunt us to start looking just leave us know.

O, I gess I can find it, I sed. I saw it roll but I dident see it stop, thats a trubble, I sed. And I kepp on looking about 10 more minnits, Lew saying, Well, if he dont wunt the experts, lets go.

Sure, thats wat I say, if he dont wunt to find it, thats his funerel, Ed sed. And they started to look as if they was going to go, and I sed, O well, Ive looked everywares so there aint any place left to look, go ahed and find it if you can.

All rite, pardner, on the trale, Lew Davis sed, and Ed Wernick sed, On the trale.

And they started to look, Ed Wernick moving all around and Lew Davis kind of staying in the same place, especially with one foot, giving me a sispicion, and I quick all of a sudden gave him a push so he had to move the other foot, and here wat was under it but my dime, and I hurry up grabbed it and ran like the dickins with them yelling after me.

Proving its more economical to be a expert yourself.

Thoughts On Modern Life

A LIVEABLE HOUSE

Among the rare achievements of mankind are the following:

A chair one can sit in—with comfort.

A bed one can sleep in—with comfort.

A house one can live in—with comfort.

We fashion and furnish houses for every conceivable reason under the sun except human use.

I have just finished reading an exhilarating book—Towards a New Architecture by Le Corbusier—in which an imaginative and realistic Frenchman begins with a recognition of the fact that the loveliness of a house lies in its liveableness.

"The problem of the house has not yet been stated," he frankly admits.

"The house is a machine for living in," he asserts.

Here is a platitude packed with revolution for architects and aspiring home-owners.

Here are some of the things Le Corbusier advises the house-builder to keep in mind:

A large bathroom looking south, opening if possible onto a balcony for sun baths, glazed walls, best fittings, shower bath, and gymnastic appliances.

A room adjoining the bathroom as a dressing-room, with adequate five-feet high fittings for clothing and linen, an ample supply of hangers, drawers, and so on. To dress and undress in the bedroom is unclean and untidy.

One large living-room instead of several small ones.

Bare walls in bedroom, living-room, and dining-room.

The kitchen at the top of the house, if possible, to avoid smells.

Concealed or diffused lighting.

Practical instead of decorative furniture; few and good pictures only.

Ventilating panes in every window in every room.

An ample supply of drawers and cabinets for odds and ends.

A separate garage.

Maid's room some place other than the attic.

Above all, a flood of light, a wealth of air, and walls and floors kept clear of clutterment.

A catalogue of obvious but overlooked specifications!

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

ONLY ADENOIDS

"So you took Belle to the doctor today? What did he say was the trouble? Anything?" asked father, comfortably.

"Yes. He said she had adenoids."

"Oh. Only adenoids."

"He didn't say Only adenoids. He said Adenoids without any Only. He seemed to think they ought to come out right quick."

"O, doctors always behave that way. Everything has to come out. The kids would be hollow if they had their way. Well, I suppose if he says they have to come out they have to come out. Seems so unnecessary to me. We never had trouble with such things when I was her age. And it's only adenoids. 'Tisn't as if it was something serious. Well, do as you like."

And because mothers are long suffering and because they always want to do what is best for the children, mother took Belle to the hospital and had the adenoids removed. In six months Belle was a far happier child than she had ever been. She grew faster. She learned faster. She ate better, slept better, played harder. And she breathed with her mouth shut.

"Well, I'll say this much. She's certainly a better looking kid since he took 'em out," said father. "She keeps her mouth shut and she doesn't look so dumb. Makes a kid look dumb, this having his mouth open all the time, like a fish. As long as it was only adenoids though—"

There's no such thing as ONLY adenoids, or only anything else concerning the body. Nothing, no organ, no part of the body lives or works alone. Each is tied to the other. Each is a part of the other. Adenoids cannot be in the body without doing mischief. They cheat the child out of oxygen, for one thing, and that is something no child can afford. Fresh air is essential to the growth of a child, and lots of it at that.

Adenoids spoil the shape of the nose and mouth. The bridge of the nose is broadened and flattened. The mouth hangs open and loses its form and expression. The brain is not fed with fresh blood sufficient for its growth and the child seems dull witted.

Breathing through the mouth is not good for the lung passage. The mouth breather is subject to frequent colds. His nose is stopped up and he sniffs uncomfortably. Then the ear passages are affected and the child has earache and a long train of ills follow in order.

There is no such thing as Only adenoids. The things are useless and a menace to a child's health and growth. The only thing to do with them is to wait for a nice clear day and have them taken out.
